This was a town—

... but it didn't progress!

Nearly a century ago this was main street of a thriving Carolina town, Several hundred residents traded at the stores, stables and feed mill. It was a big stop on the main stagecoach line.

But people moved away, so commerce stopped—property values dropped. Main street is now this country road, and plows break the soil where buildings stood.

Its name is forgotten, except by the historian who told us the story, but the moral is clear. A town will make progress . . . or it will go backward. There is no standing

> The Finer Carolina projects on which your friends and neighbors are working are indications of civic con ousness. Successful completion of these civic improvements will mean better living for you and for everyone in the community—a more beautiful town, better citizens tomorrow through better recreation today, sounder prosperity through increased and diversified community income.

There are six months to go in the 1955 Finer Carolina Contest, and your help is needed by the local comm 'ees. This Program is your program—with a sole aim of horing make your community an even more progressive, finer town in a FINER CAROLINA!
