minutes. Then again, I've seen others struggle with it for half an hour or longer and finally be forced to give it up. It makes a dandy game when you've got plenty of time on your hands and nothing special to do.

If you want to try it out, and if you can do so before someone else happens to read this, here's the solution to the mystery:

The woman and her daughter left India, arrived in London and registered at the hotel. They had rooms across the hall from each other, just as recounted in the story. The mother wasn't feeling very well when she retired. After her daughter had gone to bed, the woman began to feel worse, so she telephoned down to the desk and asked that the house physician be

CPL. JACK C. CHASON, husband of Mrs. Mary Chason and son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Chason, Route 2, Canton, will arrive soon at Fort Meade, Md. after serving for 17 months in Aschaffenburg, Germany. Cpl. Chason took basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C.

PAUL T. SMART, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Smart of Bald Creek, Upper Crabtree, has been promoted to corporal while serving as a crane operator with the 7th Army Engineering Company in Munich, Germany. Cpl. Smart received basic training at Camp Gordon, Ga., and attended Army Engineering School at Fort Belvoir, Va.

The doctor answered the call. He made an examination and to his horror discovered that the woman was suffering from the black plague—the same pestilence which swept through Europe in the fifteenth century and killed millions of people. It is absolutely incurable. The doctor knew that she had no chance to live. On the other hand, if she were permitted to live and the news got out, the hotel would be ruined. Not only that, but the plague is highly contagious. Others would be affected, and who knows; it might have swept all over England.

The doctor decided to take the law into his own hands. He administered chloroform and killed the woman. Then he told the hotel officials what had taken place. They had the body secretly removed and secretly buried. They were afraid to tell the girl anything about it. They had all of the furniture taken out of the room and burned it, so that no germs might be spread. (That accounted for the re-arrangement of the furniture which the daughter noticed.) And then, at five o'clock in the morning, they rented the room to the man from Liverpool.

Please keep in mind that there are three points to be solved in the mystery. 1. What happened to the woman? 2. Why did it happen? 3. Who caused it to happen?

You'll find it difficult for your crowd to get started on the questions, but after they make a little progress, the questions will fly hick and fast.
