

Care Of Skin Is Important In Summer

Almost immediately when you hear someone talking about "saving your skin" during the summer, you think of sunburn. But actually sunburn is but one of the hazards to beware of during the long summer season.

Vacationers, picnickers and stay-at-homers, as well, need to take note, according to Ruth Current, state home demonstration agent. Poison ivy, oak and sumac are currently in season. Just a careless step through the field or woods can land you in bed with a good case of poison ivy. When you go for a walk, keep your legs covered and be on the look-out for these poisonous plants. It's a pretty good idea, too, to take a warm shower with plenty of soap after you come in from one of these outings. Such preventative measures can save you a good deal of agony later.

Insects are another skin bugaboo. If you plan a picnic, be sure to take along a reliable repellent to ward off these "man-eating" intruders.

Sunburn, of course, always takes a heavy toll during the summer months, says Miss Current: If you're a first-timer at the beach lake, or even in your own back yard, take it easy. Remember that burn rarely shows up until after you've gone in to cool off. And remember, too, that the sun's rays can be very penetrating even on the cloudiest days. Once you've been well-burned, there's little you can do to bring relief. In the case of painful sunburn, an ounce of prevention is worth far more than the proverbial pound of cure.

'BEST CITIZEN' AWARDS were presented to these six pupils of Waynesville area elementary schools Thursday night by Bill Swift of the education committee of the Waynesville Lions Club: (seated, left to right) Ronnie Scruggs of Hazelwood, Betty Owen and Phil Gaddis of Central; (standing) Nancy Messer of Hazelwood, Mary Evelyn Phillips and David Frady of East-Waynesville. McCarroll Cites Need Of New Industry For Area

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is an extract from the talk made at the recent Chamber of Commerce banquet by H. P. McCarroll, Waynesville furniture merchant and chairman of the Chamber's Industrial Development Council.)

MR. MCCARROLL: "My talk is divided into two parts. The first part concerns our present industries operating in the Waynesville-Hazelwood area. The second part will cover the community's needs for additional industries.

"I would like to point out here that we in the Chamber of Commerce fully realize that there are people in Waynesville and the area we serve, that do not want additional industries brought to our towns. These people are in the minority but we want you to know that we fully respect their views on the matter.

"On the other hand, we have been asked repeatedly, 'Why isn't something being done to bring some new industries here? Practically every town in western North Carolina has landed one or more plants since the war, when do we get one?'

"Before I sit down, I will attempt to show you the value of industry to our community and what we are doing to find a new factory suitable to our area.

"How many of us really appreciate the real value of the industry to a community? Here is what one new industry employing just 100 people would mean to the community in which it locates.

"A Chamber of Commerce study reports that for every 100 new factory jobs, 174 other jobs are created, population increases by 296 people, retail sales increase by 360 thousand dollars a year, four new stores are established, 107 cars are registered and 70 telephones are installed.

"Over-all personal income increases by $590,000,000 a year.

"Based on these figures and the current employment figures of all our Waynesville-Hazelwood industries, allow me to point out the value of these industries to our economy. We think you are going to be surprised. These figures do not include Champion Paper or the Canton area. Nor do they include wages of people who work outside the county such as American Enka employees. Total current employment, including every industry from our saw mills and wood-working plants to the oldest and the latest manufacturing plants, is 2,080 people.

"How many payroll dollars do our industries pay to their 2,080 employees to be spent in our towns? Do you know that at the end of every working hour, $2,995 in wages have been earned? This is just $5.00 short of $3,000. You can safely say that for every working hour our employees are paying $3,000 for labor. Based on a 40-hour work week so that no overtime is considered in our figures, this amounts to $120,000 every Friday.

"It is hard to realize but it is true that our local industries have a combined total annual payroll of more than six and one quarter million dollars. Or to state it the other way around, 2,080 industrial workers have annually over 6 1/4 million dollars in spending money from industrial wages.

"Do we need additional employment, either through expansion of present industries or getting new industries to locate here? My opinion is, yes, and here is why I think so.

"Waynesville has been placed in a Group IV Classification by the U. S. Department of Labor. This means that more than 8 per cent of our people are unemployed.

While our industries employ 2,080 people, there are 2,195 people in this labor market area under 45 years of age who are available for full-time employment. Allow me to cite one illustration. A few months ago, the Welco Shoe Corporation announced the need of some 25 or 30 additional people. Approximately 700 people showed up at the plant for these jobs. It took two days to take their applications. We could double our present number of industrial jobs and still not absorb all our labor.

"Every day, we hear of people who must leave our towns and county to find employment elsewhere. All but a few of our college graduates find little opportunity for employment here and find it necessary to go elsewhere to work. Newport News and Norfolk, Virginia, Detroit, Michigan, Baltimore, Maryland, and even the truck farms of New Jersey, are enjoying the benefits of Haywood County labor.

"In Haywood County today, approximately one out of every 28 people are receiving aid through our Welfare Department. This includes, of course, old age assistance, and widows with dependent children. But this percentage is too high for a good county like ours.

"Only between 24 and 30 per cent of our high school graduates throughout the county are able to attend college or other institutions of higher learning. Almost three-fourths of our boys and girls are denied this privilege.

"This should be proof enough that our economy needs a shot in the arm. We can get this shot much faster with a nice little plant or two that would employ 400 or 500 people than any other way I know.

"What then is being done to find new industries who will locate here? I will not burden you with too many details but a very aggressive program is being followed.

"First: We asked for help. We sent representatives to Raleigh to contact the Department of Conservation and Development. The state's industrial expansion program is handled by this Department. They are a great help in locating prospects. Since January of this year, we have had no less than five separate conferences with this Department on how to get new industries.

"We have contacted and held conferences with the Southern

That's His Name

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Hubert Blaine Wolfeschlegelsteinhausenbergerdorff Sr., is quite proud of Hubert Jr.'s accomplishment.

The boy, just a shade over three years old, "surprised us by saying his name—all nine syllables of it," says the proud father.

You'd think that being a lino-type operator, Hubert Sr. would be sympathetic with people who have to tussle with his name.

But the telephone directory lists the full monicker—Wolfeschlegelsteinhausenbergerdorff, Hubert, B. Sr.—on one full line and his address on another line.

And he told the utility company he wouldn't pay his bill unless his name was right. So his name, on three lines, always comes properly spelled out.

After all, he explains, "My legal name is Wolfeschlegelsteinhausenbergerdorff (it sounds shorter when he says it) and that's the way I want it."

The city gets away with an abbreviation form on its voting registration books. There he listed as Mr. Wolfeschlegelsteinha—which is as far as the business machines will go.
