David M. Rea Dies At 61 In Charlotte

David Miller Rea, 61, manager of Charlotte Municipal Airport, died Saturday morning in a Charlotte hospital following a heart attack.

He had been airport manager for 10 years and was instrumental in the construction of the new terminal and airport at Charlotte.

His wife is the former Miss Anne Mae Bramlette of Waynesville.

Rea attended N. C. State College and served as a second lieutenant in the Coast Artillery during World War I. After the war he resided in Waynesville. For 13 years he was a division engineer with the State Highway Commission. He worked with the Army Engineers on the construction of Morris Field and other air fields in the state.

During World War II he was a civilian post engineer at Morris Field and after the war was retained by the City of Charlotte as airport manager. He had lived in Charlotte since 1935.

Funeral services were held this afternoon in the Providence Presbyterian Church at Charlotte, of which he was a member.

Serving as honorary pallbearers were Mayor Phil Van Every, City Manager Henry A. Yancey, members of the City Council, department heads of the City of Charlotte, members of the Hornets Nest American Legion Post, Judge Hugh B. Campbell, and others.

Surviving, in addition to his wife, are his mother, Mrs. Theresa Downs Niven of Charlotte; three daughters, Mrs. William J. Stokes and Mrs. Max W. Steward, both of Charlotte, and Mrs. Olin W. Stewart of Raleigh; a sister, Mrs. J. Ralph Rone of Charlotte; and six grandchildren.

Several friends and relatives of Mrs. Rea attended the service this afternoon.

Science-Fiction Film At Strand Thursday, Friday

"This Island Earth," Universal-International's science-fiction offering at the Strand Theatre Thursday and Friday, starring Jeff Morrow, Faith Domergue and Rex Reason, is possibly the best of the outer-space films yet to reach the screen.

Combining a believable plot (for a science-fiction yarn) with realistic performances, the film adds a great wealth of special effects for the space addicts. A giant space ship that takes off from earth and flies through the stars, red death rays capable of destroying all mankind, the landing on a planet millions of light years distant and the destruction of that planet before the eyes—all are so perfectly executed that they seem to be newsreel films of actual happenings.

The technical achievements call for special mention in any appraisal of this unusual and fascinating motion picture. The program notes state that the picture was two and a half years in the making and this can readily be understood. Obviously most of this time was required in bringing the technical phases to such a high state of perfection that the viewer actually feels he is "millions of light years" away from earth.

Miss Whitener New CP&L Home Economist

MISS MARIAN WHITENER
 Miss Marian Whitener, a native of Raleigh, has been appointed home economist for Carolina Power & Light Company's Asheville district. She will assist Mr. Elizabeth Parham.

Her appointment, effective October 3, was announced today by Julian Stepp, district manager for CP&L.

From the company's Asheville office, Miss Whitener will work with homemakers in the surrounding area. Customers are invited to ask for her assistance in matters concerning the most effective and efficient uses of electric service. She will be available for talks and appearances before civic organizations, as well as for group demonstrations by electrical appliance dealers and other agencies.

Miss Whitener, a 1955 graduate of Appalachian State Teachers College in home economics, joined CP&L in July and has just completed a 12 week training period. Prior to her employment by the company she was a home economics teacher at Mecklenburg High School at Matthews.

She is a Methodist and her hobbies include horseback riding, swimming and basketball.

Church Fund Drive Opens At Canton

A building program for a new sanctuary was officially launched last week by the First Baptist Church of Canton when more than 360 members gathered in the recreation room of the educational building for a loyalty dinner.

Plans for a fund-raising canvass under the direction of the Wells Organization were explained, and will be executed by the laymen of the church under the guidance of Clyde Williams, representative of the organization.

The invocation was given by Mayor Bruce Nanne.

After dinner, Dr. Robert Owen, general chairman, introduced the program and those participating on it. He expressed thanks and appreciation to the hostesses and committees who planned the dinner, and to Miss Elizabeth Thompson of the Champion YMCA staff, who prepared and served the meal.

A brief history of the church was given by Miss May Holtzclaw, clerk. She was followed by T. R. Barnes who explained the occasion for the canvass, by presenting the needs of the church.

George M. Trostel spoke on plans for meeting the needs as presented by Mr. Barnes, and Lon R. Goodson told how the canvass would be made and introduced the canvass organization.

Dr. H. A. Matthews spoke on how to make pledges and announced some pace-setting pledges made.

The program was closed by the Rev. Horace Smith, pastor, who spoke of the challenge and the opportunity that lie ahead for the people of the church, and stressed the importance of whole-hearted cooperation in any phase of church work.

Mother of Mrs. Queen Dies In Flat Rock

Mrs. Lottie M. Hundley, mother of Mrs. John Queen, Jr., died Wednesday at the home of a son, George W. Hundley, Jr. in Flat Rock.
