'Free' Gas No Bargain For 2 Boys

A month ago, two teen-aged boys got $4 worth of gasoline at the L. N. Cogburn service station on N. C. 110 south of Canton, and then while the proprietor was in the station getting cigarettes that one of the boys ordered, the two drove away without paying for their gas. Mr. Cogburn described the car as a 1950 Ford to Cpl. Pritchard H. Smith of the Highway Patrol, but he said he wasn't sure about the license number because there was a shirt hanging over the tag at the time.

He did give a number which later proved to be incorrect, but was near enough to the actual number to permit Cpl. Smith finally to locate the car last Friday.

The patrolman questioned the boy at length before he finally admitted being the driver of the car in question. Because he was a juvenile (under 16), he was released for a later hearing before Justice of the Peace J. J. Ferguson. His companion, however, who was over 16, was arrested and placed in the Haywood County jail.

The older boy will also have a hearing before Mr. Ferguson, and then probably before the next term of Superior Court. The younger boy may be tried by the juvenile judge, J. B. Siler, or may stand trial with his companion in Superior Court. The charge against them is "larceny by trick."
