Bank Votes To Increase Capital Stock

Shareholders of the First National Bank have voted to increase the capital stock of the 54-year-old institution from $50,000 to $100,000 by a stock dividend, it was announced today by J. E. Massie, chairman of the board of directors. The group also voted to split the stock, 10 for 1, and have 10,000 shares and sell an additional 2,000 shares, Massie reported. The new stock will be sold for $57.50, which will bring in $75,000 new money for the capital account of the bank. After the sale of the new stock the bank will have 12,000 shares outstanding. The common capital of the bank will be $120,000, with a surplus of $355,000, together with a substantial undivided profits and reserve account.

This is the first "new" money brought into the bank since it was organized in 1902, Chairman Massie pointed out. "The trading area of the bank is expanding rapidly, and it was felt, by the board of directors, advisable to increase the capital account of the institution," Chairman Massie continued.

The present shareholders of the bank have until October 15th to purchase the new stock. It was felt, that all the stock would not be acquired by them, and some of the new stock would be available to others. The general belief among the officials is that new stockholders will be added to the present number.

The new stock is expected to be issued October 25th.

The Comptroller of Currency, Washington, has indicated he will give formal approval of the plan, and the formality of approval is expected after the transaction is completed later this month.

Jonathan Wody, president, said today, "the plan of expansion by the board will strengthen the bank and increase our loan limitations. The program will enable us to take care of our customers, and to make loans up to $50,000. It is definitely a step forward for the bank in rendering better service to the area which we now serve."

The report of condition of the bank, published today, shows assets of $6,876,638.

Woodard said most of the workers were planning to complete their assignments today and Tuesday and make a final report. Headquarters are in the L. N. Davis office.

Yanks Win; Larsen Hurls Perfect Tilt

Don Larsen, Yankee right-hander, pitched a perfect game for New York today as the American League champions whipped the Dodgers, 2-0, and took a 3-2 lead in the World Series. This was the second no-hit game in World Series history and the first in which no one got on base. Larsen faced only 27 Dodgers.

Among hits off Brooklyn hurler Sal Maglie was Mickey Mantle's third home of the series. Paid attendance at Yankee Stadium today was 64,000. Tomorrow the Yanks and Dodgers will move back to Ebbets Field in Brooklyn.

DR. LANCASTER AT HOME

His physician said he would be unable to do any work for six months.

Haywood apple growers are following the trends of the market, as they are stressing quality and attractive "eye-appealing" packaging.

The two factors are bringing in additional dollars to the orchardmen who are "going modern." Attractive packaging is adding many dollars to each shipment of apples.

A number of orchardmen are using three different kinds of packaging, for their quality apples, and some even four:

1—The "face and fill" box is the bushel size box that has all the apples on top packed evenly, and make a striking picture when opened;

2—The next popular pack is known as the "tray pack." This is also a bushel box that has trays which hold individual apples, similar to the cartons used for eggs;

3—The polyethylene bags, for "eye-appeal" and easy shopping, and

4—The western hard box, where each piece of fruit is wrapped in waxed tissue and carefully placed in a box.

"The new type packaging is holding business," according to C. D. Ketner, an orchardman and packer, who also grows many acres of vegetables for the fresh market.

Orchardmen now realize that in the highly competitive apple market, that the modern packaging as now being done in Haywood, has meant the difference between "sales" and "no sale." Without resorting to the packaging as the market wants, there would be thousands of bushels of Haywood apples still in crates awaiting buyers, it was pointed out.

"Merchants are buying more apples on the unit basis today than ever," Ketner said. "By that, I mean the buyers like to know the exact number of apples in each box, in order that they can accurately figure the selling price." (See Apples—Page 6)

Extending - Widening Wall Street Is Next On Agenda For Town Aldermen

Joe Reinertson To Build 200 Homes In Waynesville

Two hundred homes will be built in Waynesville during the next several years by Joe Reinertson, owner of the Rocky Knob Farm on the Eagle's Nest Road, it was disclosed today.

One home already has been completed, another will be finished in 10 days and a third in 30 days. Ground is also being bulldozed now for additional home sites.

Most of the 200 homes will be erected in the Chestnut Park section on Sylvan Drive, Mr. Reinertson said.

The houses will be of frame construction, will be built from modern plans and designs, and will contain either two or three bedrooms—mostly the latter, Mr. Reinertson said.

Among individual features of the homes will be: forced-air oil furnace heat, built-in cabinets, walk-in closets with sliding doors, hardwood floors, plaster walls, garage or carport, basement if requested, city utilities, and paved roads.

The price range on the homes to be constructed will range between $8,500 and $15,000, he added.

Associated with Mr. Reinertson in the building of the homes is Bonner Rabb of Grandview Heights, who will act as superintendent and manager.

Survey Is Ready For New Project

An engineer's blueprint extending and widening Wall Street all the way to Assembly Street is expected this week, G. C. Ferguson, town manager said.

Wall Street runs parallel to Main. Proposals are to extend Wall Street from Pigeon Street all the way through to Assembly, widening the present street in some places back of business houses.

Ferguson termed the project as the next one for the town, and "Our most important street job." The street would provide more parking space, and take a lot of traffic off Main Street, Ferguson pointed out.

Paving crews have finished pouring some two-and-a-half miles of asphalt at a cost of about $18,000. This leaves less than two miles of unpaved streets in town, Ferguson said, with more than 35 miles paved.

Among the streets just paved included the Cemetery Streets, streets around the golf course, Reservoir Hill, Park Drive, and Craven Road.

Town forces are expected to start in about 30 days, putting in a sewer line in the Ninevah and Auburn Road areas, at a cost of about $15,000, Ferguson pointed out.

The street forces have just finished installing a sewer line to Augusta's new plant, by laying the line under the Southern Railway Tracks near the Smoky Mountains Fertilizer plant.

L. E. DEVOUS

DeVous Is Again Head Highlanders

L. E. DeVous was re-elected president of the Haywood Highlanders for his sixth term, at the annual meeting, when Carl Henry was named vice president, and Mrs. Inez DeVous, secretary-treasurer.

C. M. Stokes, M. L. Sadler, and Fred Henry were named members of the board of directors, with S. E. Conatser, director to the W. N. C. Highlanders, and Robert W. Winchester, alternate.

The group, in reviewing the past season, heard reports of business increases for members from 30 to 100 per cent, and plans were made for the coming year for additional promotion, and activities.

DeVous said the general increase in business this past season was attributed to: effective promotions; cooperation among members; more travel, and the Lake Junaluska programs of more conferences.

"The members worked together this season to the advantage of everyone, and thus took care of every visitor coming into the area," the president continued. The next meeting is slated to discuss the stepped-up promotion plans for 1957.

Many Outstanding Exhibits Will Be Feature Of HD Achievement Days

Hundreds of visitors are expected to visit the Armory Tuesday and Wednesday to see the exhibits of Haywood County's home demonstration clubs as they hold their sixth annual Achievement Day program.

Each of the county's twenty-eight home clubs has arranged a booth to represent a part of the over-all theme, "Planned Family Living".

Work on the booths was completed today and judging will begin at 10 a.m. Tuesday. The exhibits will be open to the public Tuesday from 1 p.m. until 10 p.m. and on Wednesday from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m. Merchants and civic leaders have been issued a special invitation to attend Tuesday night.

An unusual feature this year will be an International Exhibit which will occupy the center of the Armory and will represent the combined efforts of all the clubs. This Exhibit is an outgrowth of a study of foreign countries which has been carried on during the year with each club studying a different country.

The Achievement Day program this year will be a change from the custom of the past several years in that it will be a separate event from the Tobacco Festival. The Merchants Association is sponsoring the event.

Miss Mary Cornwell, county home agent, announced that judging of the booths will be made by the Danish System and blue, red, and yellow ribbons will be awarded according to score. Cash prizes will be awarded for club scrapbooks and a tri-color ribbon will be given to the club winning the highest combined score on booth, International Relations exhibit, and scrapbook.
