

Bethel High School Blue Demon Tales

By DOROTHY MASON

We seniors are happy over the arrival of our rings, which came October 11. Mr. Bennett, a representative of the Harcourt Co. came the 18th and took the rings that needed adjustment back to the company. They will be returned in approximately three weeks.

School pictures arrived October 9. We will all have to agree that D. L. Star Studios are the best!

Plans are under way for the annual Halloween Carnival to be held October 26. The P.T.A. is sponsoring the event.

Frances Frizzell will be this year's Homecoming Queen, and Edith Pressley will be maid of honor. They are members of the senior class.

Bethel will play Clyde October 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the football stadium in Canton.

Miss Buckner, Home Economics teacher at Bethel, won an electric range at the cooking school at the YMCA in Canton. We are very proud of her!

The FFA won an award of $175 for exhibits at the State Fair in Raleigh. This was a third-prize award.

IKE WANTS FULL SPEED ON FIRST A-POWERED SHIP

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER is shown in Washington with an artist's conception of the world's first atomic-powered merchant ship as he ordered work on it to proceed "as rapidly as possible." Shown (l. to r.) are: Adm. Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; the President; Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks and Louis Rothschild, Undersecretary of Commerce for Transportation.

W. J. Smathers Dies At 90 In Canton

Haynes was a native of Haywood County, the son of Posey Bruce Haynes and the late Della Trantham Haynes. He was a retired farmer of Haywood County and a former teacher in the Fines Creek School.

Surviving, in addition to his father, are his wife, Mrs. Pearl Trantham Haynes; four sons, Claude and Clyde Haynes of Hot Springs, Route 1, Thurman Haynes of Alexander, and Haskill Haynes of Newport News, Va.; three daughters, Mrs. Lee Smith and Mrs. Dade Hanev of Clyde, Route 1, and Miss Pauline Haynes of the home; and 11 grandchildren.

Also four brothers, Posey, Henry, and Furman Haynes of Clyde, and Verlin Haynes of Salisbury; two sisters, Mrs. Robert Sutton and Mrs. Jim Kilpatrick of Clyde. Crawford Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

MRS. VIOLA CALDWELL

Mrs. Viola Moore Caldwell, 60, died at 7 a.m. Wednesday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. C. Hugh Rogers in Clyde, following a long illness.

She was a native of Haywood County and the widow of Jesse F. Caldwell, who died in 1950. Surviving in addition to Mrs. Rogers are two other daughters, Mrs. Ruth Burnette of White Pine, Tenn., and Mrs. Ethel Fulton of Greensboro; two sisters, Mrs. Elmine Parton of Waynesville, and Mrs. Millie Price of Paelet, S. C.; five brothers, Charles Moore of Concord, Robert Moore of Paelet, T. L. and Hardy Moore of Clyde RFD 1, and Dock Moore of Knoxville, Tenn.; and six grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Friday at the Central Methodist Church of Clyde.

The Rev. Clyde Collins will officiate.

The Agate Type

ALLIANCE, Neb. (AP) — When Bill Zieg went prospecting in the Black Hills he had no idea that his chief find would be not gold but a hobby.

After three years Bill returned lugging 600 pounds of rock which formed the nucleus of what 20 years later is one of the finest rock collections in these parts. He specializes in agates.

Burial will be in Green Hill Cemetery at Waynesville.

The body will lie in state from 2 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Nephews will be pallbearers. Members of the women's Bible class of the Clyde church will be flower bearers.

The body has been taken to the home of Mrs. Rogers.

Garrett Funeral Home of Waynesville is in charge of the arrangements.

MRS. SALLIE TATHAM

Mrs. Sallie Hedden Tatham, 82, affectionately known as "Aunt Sallie," died at her home on Sylvia Route 2, Wednesday night. She was the widow of John Tatham, who died in 1937.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p.m. in the Wesleyanna Methodist Church near Sylva, of which she was a member.

Grandsons will serve as pallbearers.

Surviving are three sons, Henry and L. J. Tatham of Canton and James of Daytona Beach, Florida; five daughters, Mrs. Carma Reed of Sylva, Mrs. O. L. Hall of Henderson, Texas, Mrs. L. H. Garrett Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

The Rev. Clyde Collins will officiate.

So This Is New York

By NORTH CALLAHAN

Joe Smith is a hard man to find. I learned on looking for him. Not only has this mythical American been nominated for high office but this column has used his name for years when it appeared that the pronoun "I" seemed too conspicuous. So when it was announced that Colonel Charles Cobb, former Kentuckian, was setting up national headquarters for Joe Smith for Vice President here, I went over to see what was going on. At the address given 140 West 42nd Street, the name of Joe Smith was not on the building directory, neither was that of Colonel Cobb. So I caught the self-service elevator and rode all the way to the top. An office door with chironactor's name on it was open. This gentleman had no knowledge of Joe. On another floor, a taylor looked me up and down as if I needed a new suit of clothes. Then I climbed the stairs to the penthouse and "off route," two cuddling pigeons on the roof looked at me with some suspicion. No Joe Smith there. I did find an office, however, with no name on it but with a personable girl inside. Miss Emma Eckert, she turned out to be, and said she was much interested in Joe Smith. On the wall were two slogans, one saying: "We get too soon old and too late smart." Another stated: "Work fascinates me. I can sit and watch it for hours." I thanked the girl and made my way to the elevator. Maybe Joe Smith was up above there in that clear summer sky; or perhaps he was down among those small-looking people moving about on the sidewalks. Or maybe he is just in the hearts of the common people.

In the front of a candy store near 5th Avenue is one of those new-fangled gadgets which serve you sweets 24 hours a day. It seems hard enough to stay away from them—and an expanding waist-line—for eight hours, but even death can be made easy, they say. Anyway, after stopping in front of the machine and looking for a while at its automatic mechanism which holds those sleek-looking, lethal chocolate bars, I looked furtively around, then jabbed in a quarter—and out came a delicious time-bomb of some 300 additional calories!

New York is not like that often pictured in the movies, you will find if you do not already know. A young fellow from Georgia came here the first time and arrived at the Pennsylvania Station. He entered a taxicab and when the driver asked him where he wanted to go, the lad replied in his best movie-hero manner, "Grand Central Station—and step on it!" The cab shot out of the station, and went so fast that the young fellow spent most of the way to the station on the floor.

Large companies are glad to receive new ideas—but they would rather get them in their own way. The reason is because often the idea sent in by mail is not new, but later the sender will claim it was and if the idea is put into effect by the company, will claim that it was his original thought, and ask damages. For instance, a large automobile company received an unsolicited idea for adding to the life by moving the spare from the running board inside the trunk compartment. The company was already planning to do this, but had to pay the unsolicited idea-sender anyway.

A child in a local school was asked to tell the main facts in the life of the "grandfather of our country." He arose and said: "Benjamin Franklin was born in Boston, rode to Philadelphia on a beat, bought a loaf of bread and put it under his arm and while walking down the street, a woman saw him and laughed at him. He married the woman and discovered electricity."

An old-time Broadway actor said he once had a little skit with Ann Pennington, in which he sent her a gift of flowers. "Oh," she exclaimed with rapture (as they called it then). "They're perfectly lovely. There's even a little dew on them." The old actor gallantly replied, "Yes, there is, but I aim to pay it on Saturday."

Curious Cat

GIG HARBOR, Wash. (AP) — Curiosity almost killed the cat. Chester Ream, curious himself as to what might be under the hood, stomped his car on the road and retrieved the family's 3-month-old Max. Nosy, from a precarious spot between the exhaust manifold and whirring fan blades.

Does, like human beings, suffer acutely from claustrophobia — the fear of being shut in.

Canton High Is Winner Of Award At State Fair

Canton High School was awarded first place winner for its educational exhibit at the North Carolina State Fair in Raleigh last week. The award, a blue ribbon, was presented in recognition of an outstanding exhibit.

The entry in this division marks the first time the local high school has participated in this State wide event. To have won this immediate recognition shows the excellence of achievement in the various departments represented. Students producing entries, through their respective classes, are to be commended for their clever manipulation of tools and techniques, precision of skills employed, creative ability, and their ingenuity for developing with their minds and hands a masterful type of work to obtain acclaim from every section of the State.

Many visitors at the Fair were highly impressed and in some instances amazed that high school students were actually producing work of such outstanding merit in these fields of endeavor.

The departments exhibiting in the educational booth included the vocational department, of which the machine and welding shop, and the Home Economics department are a part. Other classes placing entries were the industrial and the arts departments.

The high school has placed this Blue Premium Award, with its many other trophies and awards, in the entrance to the school building.

FALL'S THE TIME FOR FUN AND FROLIC!

Sometime in September it's "back to school" for the offspring. Children's interests vary widely, according to their ages. But one trait they share in common — by the end of October, come Halloween-time, each and every one of them will be in a party mood.

The important features of a Halloween party are food and fun, and both should be well organized in advance. Simple refreshments, all prepared earlier, should be ready to serve the younger ones as it's a full-time job to supervise their play once they are gathered together. For the older groups a hearty main dish, to make ahead for reheating when wanted, should be the main attraction. Often both girls and boys will enjoy making such a dish themselves if they are hosts or hostesses.

Baked Apples a la Mode With Peanut Butter Sauce

Wash and core apples, allowing 1 for each serving. Pour 1 tablespoon brown sugar into each cavity. Wrap apples individually in aluminum foil, fluting around the top to leave an opening of about 1 inch. Bake at 375° for 1 hour or until apples are tender. (Wrapping them in foil prevents breaking of skin.) Serve warm with ice cream and Peanut Butter Sauce.

REV. FREDERICK Z. WOODARD, of Saint Albans, W. Va., will begin a series of revival services at the Hazelwood Presbyterian church Monday. The services will continue until November 4. Complete details on page four, section three, this issue.

Peanut Butter Sauce
1/4 C. butter or margarine
1 tsp. flour
1/2 C. water
1/3 C. peanut butter
1 1/2 C. sifted confectioner's sugar

Cook butter, flour and water over medium heat, stirring constantly until butter is melted. Add peanut butter and remove from heat. Stir in sugar. Beat with electric mixer until smooth. Serve hot over ice-cream filled apples.

Get-Together Casserole

1 8-oz. pkg. thin noodles
2 bouillon cubes
1/2 C. butter or margarine
1 medium onion, chopped
1/2 C. milk
1 lb. ground beef
1/2 tsp. salt
Dash pepper
1 can mushroom soup
4 to 6 thin cheese slices

Cook noodles in boiling water in which the 2 bouillon cubes have been dissolved. Drain noodles. Melt butter and saute onion slowly for 5 minutes. Add ground beef, salt and pepper, and cook slowly, turning frequently until brown. Blend mushroom soup and milk. Mix noodles, beef and soup, tossing lightly with a fork. Place in greased casserole and top with cheese slices. Bake at 350° for 25 to 30 minutes. (Makes 6 servings.)

SUNRISE FARMS
Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Garrett, Owners

WELCOME, HAYWOOD FRIENDS, TO SUNRISE FARMS

Mrs. Garrett and I wish to extend a hearty welcome to all of you and hope you will plan to attend the Sunrise Farms Guaranteed Dispersal Sale, Tuesday, October 30, at the farm, near Cullowhee.

The cattle have been a source of pleasure and profit to us; however, my age does not permit the continuous operation of this large herd, so it is necessary for the cattle to find new homes.

The cattle represent the better blood lines in the Angus breed. We believe that they are worthy of the most discriminating buyers' attention.

The cattle can be inspected any time — come see us whether you plan to buy or not.

Sincerely
N. W. GARRETT
