big shocker of the year, "The Bad Seed," opens Sunday at the Strand Theatre, it promises to deliver one of the most daring themes ever to be presented on the motion picture screen-whether or not "evil" may or may not be inherited.

The film repeats the same shocking theme as the original book by William March and the stage adaptation by Maxwell Anderson, and filmgoers reportedly can expect the entertainment shock of their lives

"The Bad Seed" advances the idea that a bad woman's evil can be inherited by her daughter, and it is this shocking realization that compels Nancy Kelly, portraying the mother, to act as she does. The ending, which can't be told, has been one of Hollywood's best kept secrets. It was actually filmed behind locked doors.
