Police Inaugurate Plans To Cut Down On Speeding

Speeders in Waynesville better step on the gas with a lighter foot, or they'll find themselves facing Mayor Way in police court, Chief Orville Noland said today.

"We have had some complaints about speeders, and are tightening down on the menace. Most of it, we feel, is youngsters playing, but that is a violation, and we are clamping down. We know some of the violators, and ask the parents to warn their teen-age drivers about speeding. We know some parents are going to be surprised when they learn their son or daughter has been arrested for speeding. This is the warning for both parent and driver. We are out to stop speeding, and those guilty will have to suffer the consequences," the chief said.

Demand For Bank Stock Very Heavy

The demand for the 2,000 shares of First National Bank stock here was far in excess of the available shares, Jonathan Woody, president said today.

The board of directors announced early in October that the stock would be available at $37.50 per share about the 25th, and the applications began to come in far greater numbers than the available shares.

The comptroller of Currency, Washington, gave formal approval of the additional sale of stock, and the papers on this was received Friday. President Woody said it would take the clerical staff about 10 days to prepare and mail out the stock.

The capital stock of the 50-year-old institution is now $120,000, with a surplus of $360,000, with 12,000 shares of stock outstanding.

The recent sale of stock was the first "new money" brought into the bank since it was organized in 1902. It was pointed out by J. E. Massie, chairman of the board, at the time the announcement was made that 2,000 shares would soon be available.

President Woody said that the bank is now in a position to make loans up to $48,000 to corporations, and the increased capital puts the financial institution in a position to "take care of the needs of the community."

The records of the bank show a substantial gain in their savings department in recent months, have added over $275,000, since inaugurating the 2 1/2 percent interest rate.

"People in all walks of life have opened savings accounts," Woody said.

Only those hunters who applied for and received permits in advance were allowed to hunt today in Pisgah, Mt. Mitchell, and Daniel Boone, but all the other refuges—including Sherwood Forest in Haywood County—were open today on a non-quota basis. All the areas will be open without regard to quotas starting Tuesday and continuing until the end of the season on December 1.

Only bucks with clearly visible antlers are legal game. This season's bag limit is one buck per day and two per season—which also applies to the three-day wilderness hunts to be conducted twice a week during the next two weeks.

Winners in the contest, who will receive $3 each, were: C. E. Weatherly, Wilson C. Medford, M. V. Bramlett, Sr., Floyd Dewese and Ray Brown.

What makes their performance so unusual is the fact that all five missed the same two games, upsets of Michigan State and Stanford—and each one predicted 34 points as the combined score of the UNC-Notre Dame game.

25 Cases Heard By Noon Today

Court officials were giving serious consideration this morning to working right through Thanksgiving, due to the heavy docket of the current term of Superior Court. There were more than 315 cases on the docket this morning when Judge Zeb V. Nettles, Asheville, opened the two-week term.

Solicitor Thad D. Bryson said he would not know until late today or Tuesday, as to the schedule for calling to trial any of the cases which will likely take considerable time. There are two murder cases, a manslaughter case, four cases of rape, and several other cases which could take a lot of time for a jury trial.

Judge Nettles told The Mountaineer at noon, when asked about the court's plans for Thanksgiving, said: "We don't know yet. This morning we have been talking of working on Thanksgiving, but we will have to discuss it further—perhaps later today or tomorrow. No definite decisions have been made at this moment."

Ed Potts, foreman of the Grand Jury, said the work for that body moved on schedule this morning, and his plans were to clear out most of the traffic cases on the docket this afternoon.

"We are pointing to finishing up by Wednesday afternoon. This will include inspection of all public buildings, and schools," the foreman said.

As the grand jury adjourned for lunch they were working on the murder case, and Foreman Potts said he understood from the solicitor that a warrant for another would be handed them this afternoon.
