Place Statue in Ice Jam as Villagers Pray

ALL types of boats, in the way of the St. Lawrence river ice jam, were crushed and rendered useless, as shown here. Father Bourget of the Roman Catholic church at Hogansburg, N. Y., ordered the statue of St. Peter taken out of the church and placed between the ice jam and the Indian village of St. Regis, while the villagers gave prayers of thankfulness that the river was receding. The inset shows a picture of the statue of St. Peter.

BEDTIME STORY

PETER DISCOVERS SPOOKY

PETER RABBIT had been startled by a voice as he was passing a certain big apple tree in the Old Orchard. The voice had seemed to come from that big apple tree. Peter stopped short and stared up through the branches of the tree. Look as he would he couldn't see anybody. There wasn't a leaf on that tree and he could see all each side of his head was a tuft of feathers. They look like ears, and some people think they are ears, which is a mistake. His eyes were round and yellow with a fierce hungry look in them. His bill was small and almost hidden among the feathers of his face, but it was hooked just like the bill of Hooty.

As Spooky settled himself he turned his head till he could look squarely behind him, then brought it back again so quickly that to Peter it looked as if it had gone clear around. You see, Spooky's eyes are fixed in their sockets, and he cannot move them from side to side. He has to turn his whole head in order to see to one side or the other.

"You haven't told me yet why you look so unhappy, Peter," said Spooky.

RULES

By ANNE CAMPBELL

IT WAS because of rules he had to go away from all he cherished. . . . On the street, He looked back to the ward and saw the glow of lamps. . . . He could not help it if his feet would drag a bit, as, climbing on a bus, He rode in silence, almost ominous. He thought of rules the whole way to the rooms. Her presence had made sweet. . . . The hospital. Must have them, I suppose. . . . A man presumes. . . . But after all, there was his child, his wife— All that he held most precious in this life. But when he washed his work-grimed hands and lay alone within their bed, he thought again. Of the not very distant, happy day When rules to separate them would be vain. Smiling, he thought (Queer how a grin can smart!): "No rules can keep her image from my heart!"

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a man forty-five years of age. I am single. I do not chew, smoke, drink, swear, dance or gamble. Do you think I will live to be ninety years of age?

Yours truly,
A. MARVEL

Answer: You probably will. But, if you don't do any of the things you mention, why do you want to live forty-five years longer?

Dear Mr. Wynn: I was in New York last week and saw a lot of plays. Why do the managers produce plays which are so "raw"?

Yours truly,
Q. PONN

Answer: The managers know the newspapers will "roast" them.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I smoke 60 to 70 cigarettes a day and my doctor says this habit will affect my brain. Do you agree with him?

Yours truly,
SIG ARR

Answer: No! If you had any brains you wouldn't smoke 70 cigarettes a day.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I arrived in a small town, one day last week, and I had a heavy grip. I saw a tramp at the station and thought I would have him carry my bag for me. I asked him if he wanted to make a quarter. He said "no" and walked away from me. How do you account for that?

Yours truly,
BAYLES MAN

Answer: He probably had a quarter.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I was to a vaudeville show last night. It was one of those acts a fellow with a terrible voice sang a song. Although he sang it badly the melody still haunts me. How do you account for that?

Sincerely,
K. OTTICK

Answer: That is easily explained. The reason the melody haunts you is because the singer was so bad he probably murdered the song.

COOKING WITH COCONUT

NOW that the fresh coconuts are in the market it is the time to use some of the good recipes that are being worked out by industrious housewives.

To prepare the coconut pieces the eyes with an ice pick and let the milk drain into a cup. Now place the coconut in the oven for a few minutes to become hot, then crack it and the meat will come out nicely without sticking to the shell.

Fresh Coconut Candy.
Take one cupful of coconut milk, add three cupfuls of sugar and put on to boil; cook ten minutes after the boiling begins, then add all of the grated coconut and cook five minutes longer. Beat until it is cold, pour out into greased baking sheets and cut into squares.

Baked Pork Chop Dish.
Put a layer of thinly sliced potatoes in a baking dish, cover with shredded onion and salt and pepper. Lay over this as many pork chops as needed, seasoning well on both sides. Add enough milk to moisten and bake until all the food is well done.

Coconut Cookies.
Take one cupful of fresh coconut, add to two-thirds of a cupful of butter and one and one-third cupfuls of sugar creamed, add two beaten eggs, one-half cupful of chopped raisins and sift together one and one-half cupfuls of flour with four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful each of cinnamon and nutmeg and one-half teaspoonful of cloves. Add the dry ingredients alternately with one-fourth cupful of coconut milk.

Orange Coconut Creams.
Melt one tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add two cupfuls of granulated sugar, one-half cupful of coconut milk and one-fourth cupful of water. Heat to the soft ball stage, 236 degrees Fahrenheit, stirring only when necessary. Cool and beat like coconut fudge. Add flavoring, using two teaspoonfuls of orange juice and one-half teaspoonful of grated peel; mix well with two cupfuls of freshly grated coconut. Mold with the hands, taking a tablespoonful at a time. Roll in coconut and set aside to harden. This recipe yields about one and one-half pounds.

The beauty standard of the skin is higher than that of the body, according to Dr. Charles F. Felt, chief dermatologist of the Hospital, Brooklyn.

"The olive skin of a beauty is not easily marred by a slight inflammation or a small eruption," he said, "but the slightest irritation or blemish is quickly noticed on the face and a beauty is quick to notice the fact that a beauty is higher than that of a beauty."

Diagnosing the relationship between a person's skin and personality, Doctor Felt said that a "pensive and earnest complexion is seldom a blessing" and that acne or pimples "is nature's check-rein on the spirit of unbridled youth."

"The texture of the skin is chiefly dependent upon the age of the individual. The school girl complexion belongs only to the school girl. It is as foolish for the matron to attempt to regain her striated skin as to rearrange in pigtail and pinafore. The flushed appearance of the peaches and cream complexion is only too often the sign of the beginning of an inflammation of the skin, or the blush—not of sweet sixteen—but of a feverish condition."

"Seventy-five per cent of the cases of acne occur between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five. It is truly the bane of youth, and young people afflicted with pimples deserve sympathy, for they suffer great humiliation and embarrassment."

"It seems strange that a disfiguring eruption like acne should appear at the time of life when the personal appearance means so much. Perhaps it is nature's check-rein on unbridled youth—an injunction handed down by nature, restraining vain youth from too frequently overstepping the bounds of convention."
