Sholar Holding Farm Classes

Evening classes in vocational agriculture are being held regular-ly each Thursday night at a tobacco barn on William Gooding's farm. The classes are conducted by Mr. Sholar, agricultural teacher at the B. F. Grady school. A large attendance is reported each week. Classes have been going on for the past aix months. They take the form of a round table discussion and many problems facing local farmers are discussed, Problems such as prevention of diseases, improving homes, agricultural organzations, cotton and tobacco contracts, tobacco diseases and insects and how to control them, etc.

Over 75 farmers have been enrolled in the classes and meetings will continue through the su months being held every other week. A few meetings have been held at Oak Grove and at Outlaw's
