...able him to have every comfort and pleasure of life.

Listen any people of the earth, let these words stand out prominently before you always, REGRET - WRONG, and remember that they can and will make or ruin any living person. Man is given knowledge to know that wrong will wreck his life; that will injure and hurt others, those closest to you often hurt the more, that it will wreck a life until its very soul is lost forever and the cold grave claims its victim.

He was given knowledge to know that right would lead him up out of troubles, through trials and worries of every kind, would make for him health and wealth, place him out into the land of promise, business and social life, to understand the great truths and broadest of them that others might get on the right side, and finally to become more closely associated with the greatest of associates our Merciful loving God who is ever waiting to take those who have done the right, thing to an everlasting home of happiness where wrong can never enter.

In face of all the above, people knowing right and wrong, billions like the moth that plays with a flame, dare, take a chance, and are stung, but the gambling spirit is still there and they are led on and on. Like dope the sin bug has bitten, it has eaten in, until poison takes a hold, they are sliding down, down into sin, shame and everlasting death, when I, your Conscience am ever present to warn and advise every one to take the right road.

I am with you, have been since the beginning and will forever be. You know right from wrong, you know what each will do, so when you are tempted to do that which you know to be wrong, and something a little bigger says "DO RIGHT", remember I am speaking to you, and if you will but heed it, save you oceans of trouble and gives you worlds of happiness.

We can conceive of no spectacle better calculated to lead the mind to serious reflections than that of an aged person, who has mis-spent a long life, and who when standing near the end of life's journey looks back through the long vista of his years, only to see long opportunities unimproved, lost. Now that it is all too late, he can clearly see where he should have listened to CONSCIENCE. It is now too late, but he can clearly see where he passed in heedless haste those things worth while, in pursuit of those things worthless, seeking a few moments of pleasure, which when gained, like apples of sodom, turned to ashes in his very grasp.

If that man of silvery gray tottering and bent standing at the brink of the grave, if for him time would but turn backwards, giving him another opportunity how different he would do. Regrets are useless, golden moments lost are never regained.

Life with its million voices is screaming, yelling in loud voices, begging and pleading, calling upon you to prepare yourself, for you are out on the great highway. Listen to the voice of Conscience when it bids you do right and let this one motto be yours, YOURS. Place it in your home, in your car, keep it in your mind and it will be a wonderful leader. NEVER DO ANYTHING THAT LATER YOU MIGHT REGRET.

Regardless who you may be, how beautiful, how young, how strong, how rich, or how much you may know, if you live YOU MUST GROW OLD, and are you going to live in youth, that you may enjoy old age. This is Conscience speaking, ARE YOU?

Old Thanksgiving

IN NEW FORM

Custom change. Old celebrations take on new forms, old methods are discarded. But throughout the evolution, one thing remains constant... the primary aim of the occasion. Records of earlier Thanksgivings being to mind later changes, yet the spirit of Thanksgiving holds true today as it did three hundred years ago.

This change is not limited to our celebrations. In our everyday lives we face it constantly. It has become a source of pride in every business to point to changing methods of fulfilling a constant ambition.

With us, improved methods have served to improve our real aim. To this end our methods each year take on new forms, incorporate the newest developments, that we may continue a better name and a finer service, our real aim in the business of DUPLIN COUNTY.

CONSCIENCE

And again Conscience speaks. "The Great God who made man made him master of everything, gave him physical power to invent, to manufacture, assume to see, to hear, taste, smell, to think and to know right from wrong. He gave to man power and knowledge to build a kingdom that would be..."
