Our Forestry Work

Last week we saw something of the busy workings of the forestry department, and we will continue our research this week.

The Department is working perfectly to date with several fires to deal with, but none have gotten beyond control.

Suppose a fire breaks out, what would you do? First be sure to notify the nearest warden.

Always be sure to notify all adjoining landowners before setting out a fire and remember that you are liable for all damage done by a fire, whether from carelessness or by accident, when you are the party that started the fire.

Section 4309 of the North Carolina Forest Fire Laws says in part, that any person desiring to set fire on his own farm must first warn all adjoining land owners.

Lets all cooperate with our County and District wardens and make our county free from forest fires.

Information furnished by Ralph Miller, County Forestry Warden.

When the cuttings are made in winter, Weaver advised that they be stored in a cool cellar in damp sand or peat.

As soon as the soil is in good workable condition in the spring, the cuttings may be set out in the garden in rows 18 inches apart.

The next fall, after the cuttings have grown a little, transplant them to a place where the spacing is wider.

Evergreen shrubs are a little harder to propagate, but the home gardener can do it with a little care, Weaver said.

In the fall, or early winter where the climate is mild, set out evergreen cuttings five to seven inches long.

Set them in rows four inches apart, with the twigs two to row inches apart in the row.

State Safety Campaign

Have you seen the sign boards that are being used by the State in their safety campaign?

There you see a state highway officer holding the mangled body of a child in one arm and signaling to the other arm that you stop killing these children.

Did you ever notice a little sign sitting along the highway with the words "Men Working" and then as you drove on you were thankful that you saw the sign.

Set Out Cuttings To Start New Shrubbery

Winter and spring months offer the home gardener a good opportunity to enhance the beauty of the home grounds by propagating more shrubs and flowering plants.

One of the most popular ways of propagating deciduous shrubs is setting out cuttings of stems six to eight inches long.

The wood of last season's growth should be taken during the fall, winter, or spring months.

Extension Workers Study New Program

Agricultural authorities agree that the complexity of modern civilization has given rise to farm problems unlike any that have been encountered before.

To aid in the solution of these problems have been called the philosopher and the sociologist, as well as the scientific research worker and the farmer in the field.

The broader social and economic aspects of rural life must be considered in the development of an adequate long-time farm program.

With this in view, North Carolina's extension workers made a special study of the deeper implications of present conditions while holding their annual conference at State College last week.

In working out a sound program the dean said, they must encourage farmers to cooperate in balancing their farming schedules so as to maintain their own self-sufficiency while producing the commodities needed by society.

"Not only must we promote better cultural practices," he declared "but we must also study the markets to determine the best production schedules.

We need to give careful consideration to the welfare of the farmer and his family, to the development of better living standards and a more vital, wholesome community life.

In fact, there is hardly a phase of rural life that does not come within the scope of the long-time agricultural program now being set in motion by the extension service."

Reclaim Swamp Lands With Copper Sulphate

Applications of copper sulfate will increase the productivity of reclaimed swamp lands in eastern North Carolina.

The copper sulfate corrects a soil defect that, in many fields, causes the crops to be shallow rooted, unthrifty, and low in yield.

Most of the trouble is found in peat soils with a high organic content and a dark brown color. The surface of the soil may be black, but the upper subsoil is brown.

N. C. Music Clubs Composition Contest

Four prizes are offered; two "Senior" prizes of $10.00 each; two "Junior" prizes of 5.00 each. Classification of prizes is as follows: Senior I - The Federation prize of $10.00 for the best song, sacred or secular. The composer must be over twenty-one years of age.

Senior II - A prize of $10.00 for the best piano solo. The composer must be over twenty-one years of age.

Junior I - A prize of $5.00 for the best song, sacred or secular. The composer must be under twenty-one years of age.

Junior II - A prize of $5.00 for the best piano solo. The composer must be under twenty-one years of age.

Rules Governing the Composition Contest. 1. The contestant must be an American citizen, and must have lived in North Carolina at least one year.

2. The composition must be submitted in manuscript. No composition already published will be considered.

3. A contestant may enter any number of manuscripts for one or both compositions in "Senior" or "Junior" group.

4. A contestant winning the prize for the best song may not enter songs the following year but may still be eligible for the piano solo prize.

5. The name of the contestant must not appear on the manuscript. It must be enclosed in a sealed envelope containing, also, the names of the compositions and the address with postage for return of the manuscripts.

6. All manuscripts must be in the hands of the Chairman of N. Carolina Composers not later than February 10, 1936.

7. Care will be taken to safeguard the manuscripts in every possible way, but the Federation cannot be held responsible in case of loss. Each contestant should retain a duplicate copy of any manuscript submitted.

8. Manuscripts should be sent to Mrs. M. A. Baldwin, Chairman of North Carolina Composers, 503 W. Whaker Mill Road, Raleigh, N. C.

9. The winners of prizes are expected to make every effort to be present at the premiere performance of their compositions, and to receive, in person, the prizes at the convention, at High Point, N. C., March 25-28, 1936.

10. The Federation reserves the right to reject any composition not considered worthy of a prize.

11. All contestants please bear in mind that the judge's decision is final.
