$6,000 CONTEST OPENED TO DUPLIN COUNTY FARM YOUNGSTERS TO STIMULATE MARKETING AND PRODUCTION EFFICIENCY AND OFFSET FARM LABOR SHORTAGES

Duplin County farm youngsters were invited today to compete in a $6,000 wartime food production and marketing contest sponsored by the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association.

Registration blanks and details regarding the program in this county may be obtained from L. E. Weeks of Kenansville, assistant farm demonstration agent, according to L. R. Harrell of Raleigh, state 4-H Club leader.

"One objective of the program is to help offset critical shortages of adult farm labor by stimulating actual production of food by workers under draft age," Harrell explained. "The second objective is to help acquaint farm youngsters with efficient methods of marketing, because supplying the nation with food in war or peace depends on moving food rapidly and economically to the right place, at the right time and in the right condition."

Public Health and The War

Increased efforts to preserve public health are public demands in wartime emergencies. We have war time emergencies. We have there is an increasing demand that greater and more effective efforts be made by health officials in the prevention of epidemics which might seriously affect war materials production.

It has been estimated that absenteeism has cost us 400,000,000 man-hours in industry. One-seventh is due to accidents and occupational diseases; the balance to health factors outside the plant.

Statistics show that an injured soldier, and therefore presumably a sick soldier, not only puts himself out of action but also requires the services of three other people to take care of him. In our all-out, total war effort this same ratio would be expected to apply to the soldiers on the home front as well as to the soldiers at the battle front.

A war plant worker or a farmer, or any other essential war worker for that matter, by virtue of his skill, is just as vital to our national existence as is the trained member of our armed forces. His health is not only his wealth but is also the health and wealth of the nation.

His health, though equally as important as that of the soldier, is often times not as well guarded. The soldier is routinely immunized against many diseases, is fed a diet prepared under the supervision of nutritional experts, and is encamped at a site where various items of sanitation have been carefully considered.

Though Preventative Medicine and Public Health has also made big strides as regards the civilian population, most health measures are still left up to the individual. It is largely up to him to see that he gets an adequate diet and that he gets himself immunized against the diseases for which we have protective vaccines.

There is at the present time an acute shortage of milk and milk products, just as there is an acute shortage of many other food items.

Apparently there is no danger of a famine as such, but rather a shortage of certain available foodstuffs due to various causes such as a shortage of farm labor, shortage in transportation facilities, increased demands of our armed forces and increased demands of our allies for food.

Point rationing of food is designed to safeguard individual rights and to assure each and every one of us an equal share of the available food. Share and share alike is the very essence of the democratic spirit for which we are fighting. Paradoxical though it may seem, the state of nutrition in Great Britain, today, especially among the poorer classes of people, is said to be better than it was before the war. This is due partly to a rigid system of point rationing of food and partly to a well planned and executed educational program on nutrition. Here in this country we are going to have to learn how to make frequent and varied substitutions in our daily menus, but at the same time maintain a diet adequate in the necessary foodstuffs. This can only be done by learning the essentials of nutrition.

Even though there are certain food shortages, and even though there may be a shortage of medical personnel in certain localities, we must safeguard our public health now as never before. As to how this can best be done, I would like to emphasize the following general rules:

(1) Housewives study nutrition and learn how best to maintain a balanced diet for the family in spite of shortages of certain food products. Consult your home demonstration agent or your Health Department for available literature advice.

(2) Raise a variety of vegetables, and while you are at it try to raise enough for the family next door whose men are all in the armed forces or at the ship yard.

(3) Arrange to can a variety of vegetables and fruits during the appropriate season. There are also other methods of preserving food products. Consult your home demonstration agent for literature and advice.

(4) Keep a milch cow and do not kill her for beef just because of the high prices for beef. If necessary, make arrangements with your neighbor for fresh milk. Whenever possible, give infants and children only Grade "A" Pasteurized milk.

(5) Be sure you have yourself and your children immunized against the diseases for which we have protective vaccines—particularly, typhoid fever, smallpox, diphtheria, and whooping cough. Consult your family physician or your health officer for these services.

(6) Remember black market activities involving meats and other perishable foods is not only unpatriotic but is actually dangerous from the standpoint of health. C. H. Woodburn, M.D. Duplin Co. Health Officer

Grady Students Debate Federal Aid to Education

(Intended for last week) A most interesting debate was held in the Grady School Auditorium last Monday between the Grady Beta Club and the Grady High School debating team.

The query was: "Resolved, that the Federal Government should adopt the policy of extending Aid to General Public Education."

The debate was interesting and very instructive. All speakers showed evidence of much preparation. The victory in this hard-fought battle went to the negative side. The affirmative speakers (members of the Beta Club) were: Annie Dora Wallace, Evelyn Whitfield, and Alene Outlaw. The negative speakers were: Durwood Albertson, Mittie Ruth Wallace, and James Henry Parker.

Judges for the debate were Dr. G. V. Gooding, Mr. Ralph Carlton and Mr. Mitchell Allen all of Kenansville.

All English classes in Grady High School have debated this year, and there was very much interest shown.

B. F. G. Holds Junior-Senior Banquet

(Intended for last week) The B. F. Grady High School held its Junior-Senior banquet at Hotel Kinston Tuesday, April 6th. The National theme was carried out in the decorations and program. A lighthouse and battleships constructed by the junior boys decorated the center of the tables. The mint cups made in the form of boats flying American flags, were designed by the junior girls. The junior girls also made program booklets which were very attractive with blue covers and red anchors on a white background.

The following program was presented: Toastmaster, Remus Teachey; "Don't Give Up The Ship", Evelyn Whitfield; "Join the Navy", Durham Grady; Solo, Remus Teachey; "On the Bridge", Fletcher Stanley; Response, Mr. Dotson; Reading, Myra Jo Maxwell; "First Line of Defense", Pauline Harper; Response, Mr. Edgerton; "Anchors Aweigh", Group.

The menu was as follows: Half Grapefruit, Fried chicken, candid yams, salad, assorted pickles, hot rolls, ice tea, ice cream and cake.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Edgerton; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dotson; Mr. and Mrs. F. W. McGowan; Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Davis; Mrs. E. C. Newton; Mrs. W. T. Byrd; Miss Dorothy Osborne; Miss Myrtle Lauden and the honor guests, members of the senior class.

After the banquet the guests were invited to see "Yankee Doodle Dandy" at the Paramount Theatre.

ACID—not speed—may "burn up" your engine now!

CONOCO MOTOR OIL OIL-PLATES YOUR ENGINE. You don't go "tearing off" the miles, and you hate tearing off ration coupons, too. You'd think your low speed and mileage would almost do away with engine wear. But the products of combustion—always hanging back in the cylinders after stopping—contain acids that nibble at metals! Engine acids are nothing new, only they couldn't do their worst when interrupted by frequent use of your car and fast driving, instead of staying in your inactive engine for days. Short, slow, infrequent runs don't help much to clean acids out. So now when you're not even sure of getting any needed replacement parts, make sure you muzzle acids as well as you can, by keeping your engine's insides OIL-PLATED. You know of plating being used to resist such corrosion as rust, for instance. And
