

The Future Looked Black

As this chart from the March of Time film, "Naval Log of Victory," graphically shows, the Japanese at Pearl Harbor had achieved a major victory. Our naval supremacy in the Pacific was definitely destroyed, and Japan's Imperial Fleet, combining with those of Germany and Italy, had given the Axis enormous naval power.

The Future Looks Black—For the Axis

This chart from The March of Time film, "Naval Log of Victory," shows how the Allies, by cutting Axis superiority in sea battles, and by a shipbuilding program unequalled in history, came from behind to win unquestioned naval supremacy from Murmansk to Midway.

THE Best Gift
Good Eyesight
It's a gift that we, too often, take for granted... and we do not take care of until it's too late. Very often neglected eye conditions bring very poor eyesight in later years and in some cases even blindness. It is a pity, as these conditions can be avoided by periodic examinations by a reliable optician. Surely that is a small price to pay for such a valuable gift.

Can You Picture
without its Tobacco Industry?

All of us who live in North Carolina — no matter what our jobs may be — would have a hard time recognizing this State of ours if its tobacco industry suddenly disappeared in thin air. Directly or indirectly it affects us all — giving jobs to people we know, utilizing the services of thousands of others, using the produce of our farms, paying taxes, and, of course, providing us with our favorite smokes just as it provides smoking pleasure to our boys on every fighting front around the world.

lina, ranking first in the nation in tobacco products, is likewise the home of many other flourishing industries, prominent among them being textiles, food, furniture, lumber and chemicals.

We who keep Greyhound buses rolling across our State take pride in the industrial achievements of our fellow North Carolinians — and take part in them, too! It's our job — in wartime as in peacetime — to transport men and women to factories and farms, to keep essential goods moving, to make our neighbors and good neighbors of all the communities we touch every day in North Carolina.

The tobacco industry is only one of the vital mainstays of North Carolina's well-being — and yet its products are valued at more than a half billion dollars annually and their manufacture provides direct employment to more than fifteen thousand workers. North Caro-
