-OUR APOLOGIES-

-OUR APOLOGIES-Last week the Times reached most of you a little late. Several important stories were omitted. This week some important stories are didited and others condensed. We regret this and hope the situ-ation is corrected before another week rolls around. It's the same old story: the War. One of our machines broke down. We had to wire New York for parts. The parts finally arrived but it took some time to get them in and the machine adjusted. We had to get the paper out the best way we could. We extend our thanks to The Mount Olive Tribuse for lend ing us enough type last week to enable us to get the paper out.

Wreck In Wilmington Nora Lee Herring of Calypso Dies 20 Minutes after Car Orashes into Bridge; Military M. P. Driving Car.

Wilmington, March 28.—A mem ber of the Merchant Marine and a former Wilmington waitress were killed and a military police-man was critically injured this morning at 3:20 o'clock when their automobile crashed into the Cape Fear river bridge in a wreck that grumbled the car's motor and smashed the west left end of the span. SDan

The dead were identified as 18-year-old Nora Lee Herring of Cal-ypso, former waitress at the Han-over Grill and Stanley R. Trusler of Ireland, W. Va., chief radioman of the Merchant Marine.

State highway patroimen said that Trusfer was killed instantly and that the girl, pinned in the about twenty minutes after the wreck occurred. Little was remov-ed from the wreckage by military police and State patroimen.

Traveling west on U. S. High-way 74, the Ford coach crashed into the left end of the bridge and tumbled down the river embank

Declining to estimate the speed of the wrecked car, patrolmen de-clared, "it would take a car going at a rapid rate of speed to do the damage to it and the reinforced concrete bridge that was done."

"The military policeman, from all indications, was operating the attomobile," police said. Indiss Herring it survived by her parents who live in Calypso, and a since reading in Washington.
