Notice To Tobacco Farmers

We frequently hear good farmers say: "I'll deposit my tobacco money AFTER I pay some bills," or "After I divide this money out." They regard the bank only as a safe place to store money they are not using.

The Bank Can Be More Than Just A Safe Place For Your Idle Funds

If you will deposit ALL your tobacco money, the WACCAMAW BANK will be your silent partner in all business transactions, keeping your record of income and expenditures providing you with receipts for all payments, and protecting your funds against fire, loss and theft all the time. It will be a dependable source of sound, economical credit for your use in the future.

So, don't wait until you pay all your bills to deposit your money. Deposit the money you intend to pay out, AND PAY BY CHECK. The cost, if any, will be low for the service and protection you get.
