

Pinafore Saves Pennies For Bond

Wear a crisp pinafore. This ruffled beauty is of white cotton pique, with a generous sprinkling of purple pansies. Look in your local stores for such patterns. Remember, pennies saved by stitching help buy War Bonds.

Civil Service Workers Go On 40-Hour Week

Effective immediately, the United States Civil Service Commission has established for all full time Commission employees an administrative work-week of forty hours extending from Monday through Friday with eight working hours for each of the five days, E. S. Burrows, Acting Regional Director, announced today. In issuing this directive, the Commission authorized the Regional Director to order and approve for an employee or group of employees, regularly scheduled administrative work weeks of forty hours extending over five days, of eight working hours each, other than the normal work week authorized by the Commission, where working conditions necessitated such changes. The Regional Director may also authorize, when the need arises, irregular or occasional overtime in excess of forty hours per week. This means that Fourth Regional employees will enjoy their first full week end this Saturday, September 1 and 2.

How Long Must You Work To Get Benefits?

"Hey, Buddy, how long must you work to be eligible for social security benefits?" That's a question asked a lot around the plant, inside and out. Well, here's the answer. To become "fully insured" a wage earner must have worked in covered jobs approximately half the time between the beginning of the old-age and survivors insurance program on January 1, 1937 (or his 21st birthday, if that was later) and the date on which he reaches 65 or dies, whichever is earlier. More precisely stated, this period is divided into calendar quarters of 3 months each. The wage earner must have been paid $50. in wages in covered jobs in at least half the calendar quarters between Jan. 1, 1937 (or the time he became 21, if that occurred at a later date) and his 65th birthday, or the date of his death, whichever comes first. In no case can a worker become fully insured unless he has at least 6 quarters of coverage. Once a wage earner has 10 full years in covered jobs, he is fully insured for life. The amount of a benefit does not stand still. Benefits are tied to earnings. They depend on the worker's average monthly wage in covered jobs. For this reason it may be wise for you, if you are fully insured, to file a claim for benefits as soon as you reach 65.
