

MILLER - BROWN VOWS SPOKEN IN FORMAL TWILIGHT CEREMONY

Norma Lyde Brown Weds Cecil Miller in Beulaville Baptist Church

On June 2, Miss Norma Lyde Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Brown of Beulaville, N. C., became the bride of Mr. Cecil Allen Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Miller of Beulaville, at the Beulaville Baptist Church with the Rev. A. L. Brown, pastor of the bride, and Rev. J. G. Morrison, pastor of the groom, officiating at a double ring ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated in candlelight, with a background of long leaf pine and large baskets of white gladioli. The altar was entwined with Southern smilax and ivy, using candleabra on either side.

Miss Anne Mabry of Norwood played a program of pre-nuptial music including "Song To The Evening Star", from Tannhauser, "Barcarolle", from Les Contes D'Hoffmann, "The Rosary" and the traditional wedding marches. "To A Wild Rose" was played during the ceremony. Miss Catherine Lewis of Faison sang "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white bridal satin fashioned on Colonial lines. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a coronet of seed pearls. Her white prayer book was showered with stephanotis and centered with a purple orchid. The bride's only ornament was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom.

The maid of honor, Miss Mary Quinn Brown, sister of the bride, wore a gown of yellow net and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Polly Brown, sister of the bride, Miss Rosalyn Harris of Arcola, Miss Helen Brinson of Beulaville and Miss Edith Brown of Magnolia. Their dresses were fashioned identical to that of the maid of honor, two wearing blue and two wearing pink and carrying bouquets of mixed flowers.

Gordon Miller, brother of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Macon Brown, cousin of the bride, Winifred Miller, cousin of the groom, Bonnie Thomas and Leeland Grady.

The mother of the bride was attired in a blue eyelet dress using white accessories and her shoulder corsage was of red roses. The groom's mother, was dressed in Navy blue with matching accessories and her corsage was of red roses.

Mrs. Miller attended East Carolina Teachers College and for the past two years has been head of the commercial department of the Beulaville High School.

Mr. Miller attended Kings Business College in Raleigh and has recently returned after serving a year in the European Theater. He is at present employed in the office of Wilson and Company in Raleigh.

The couple left immediately for unannounced points. For traveling the bride wore a Navy blue suit with white accessories and the groom wore a tuxedo.

Since June 9th, they have been making their home in Raleigh. Immediately following the rehearsal on Saturday night, the bride and groom were entertained at the home of the bride's parents at a cake cutting. The table was covered with a crocheted cloth and was attractively decorated with candlelight and white gardenias. The four-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Miss Anne Mabry presided at the punch bowl.

State College Hints

By RUTH CURRENT

Home canning is very important this year, when famine stalks overseas. Every jar of home-canned food that a family puts up for itself will do its bit toward making the world's food supply go around.

Luckily, this year no serious shortages in canning equipment are expected.

Enough of the right tools for the job makes for efficiency in the kitchen. But too many tools have the opposite effect. Duplicates and unnecessary extras that tend to collect in kitchen drawers and cupboards take up space, slow down work and waste time and energy.

Homemakers will find it pays to set aside 15 minutes each day to organize work plans for the day such as meals, cleaning activities, time to guide the children's play and a period for relaxation.

Unemployment Reaching Peak In Duplin & Wayne Counties

(From Goldsboro News Argus)
The following analysis of the labor situation was issued last Saturday:

Our Unemployment has just about reached its peak in Duplin and Wayne counties and should now start declining. Job openings with USES are not sufficient to utilize the available unemployed supply, because demands are mostly for unskilled workers and few are available. An increasing number of employers are participating in the on-the-job training for veterans.

Current job openings on order with the USES number about 350. About 100 are clerical and sales, service, skilled, and semi-skilled jobs, while 250 are unskilled jobs in plywood, lumber, construction, and pickle plants.

Why aren't the unemployed working? Chiefly because there aren't enough jobs and the jobs that are available do not match the skills of the available workers. About one-third are colored women, unskilled workers for whom there is no demand. Of the 326 veterans registered, 275 are qualified by training or experience to do professional, managerial, clerical and sales, service, skilled or semi-skilled work. In contrast, a majority of openings are for unskilled male laborers.

On-The-Job-Training - 112 employers in the Goldsboro area have been approved to train 215 veterans in 54 job classifications. If you need trained workers this is an opportunity to get them. Call your local USES office for information.

Questions & Answers

Farm Subjects

Q. Are there any new vegetables recently developed for use in this state?

A. Yes. The Wando garden pea is new and, although it comes in late, outbears the old standby, Early Alaska peas.

Q. Is it safe to leave off dusting of cucumber and melon crops this year?

A. Pathologists and entomologists recommend dusting every 10 days with copper dusts.

Q. Have the recent heavy rains damaged the tobacco crop other than by drowning?

A. Some tobacco has been scaled in areas of heavy rainfall but probably the greatest difficulty in leaf production thus far has occurred in leaching of fertilizer from the soil.

The Third "R"

For a short while before my first day at school, and for several weeks after, I heard a great deal of conversation about the three R's of education. My elders seemed to expect me to think it was very funny that the three R's should stand for reading, writing and arithmetic. It left an impression, to say the least. I still know that education includes some variety.

One of the things about modern education that dismays me is the fact that students don't pursue the three R's long enough. They are at liberty too early to ignore one of them—the last one. Figures are dry at first and a lot of youngsters drop mathematics. High school freshmen have learned to say "it's only a waste of time to study things you don't like and will never use."

Ignorance Is Costly
"What you don't know doesn't hurt you," is rubbish. Certainly what you don't know does not do you any good. Truly an actor may draw a fabulous salary for years and die in debt. Tales are told of artists and musicians who can't balance their check stubs. Their ignorance of math did not make them better artists. It would be like saying liquor made Poe a poet, or that harem make great kings.

A national poll might show that millions of Americans don't know what it means to balance the budget. It wouldn't be surprising; most of us don't even have a personal budget, we live so easily and well. But our national budget needs to be balanced. People who try to laugh that off don't know what it means or, worse yet, would welcome national bankruptcy as a stepping stone to revolution.

What Does It Mean?
Balancing a budget, whether it is a family budget or a national budget, means keeping a safe relation between income and outgo. The inevitable result of spending more than we get is debt, bankruptcy and loss of credit. That's just another way of saying "loss of our good name and the respect of our neighbors." When we stop paying our debts and start breaking our promises, that's loss of credit.

Uncle Sam is on his way to that social level. He has not reached it yet, but when he does it will be too late to save him. Now is the time to balance the national budget. I was never so proud of my home state as when the entire Arkansas delegation in Congress, senators and representatives, went on record in March as favoring a balanced national budget. That's practical statesmanship.

Read These Truths
"A balanced federal budget can be accomplished in the next fiscal year if congress will meet its full responsibility and adopt a program of economy. By considering each appropriation bill in the light of its effect on total necessary expenditures, we can hold the cost of government within the annual revenues collected. . . . The time to begin is now." So said the statement. Habitually spending money we do not have can't help but lead this nation to collapse, and nothing worse could happen to the world's economic welfare. Think of the war functions now filling along; of the men whose energies might be transferred to the credit column. In every household there is unwanted waste that should be and can be transformed into a bit of thrift.
