QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

OF INTEREST TO VETS

Q. May I make larger payments on my G. I. loan than my regular installments?

A. Yes. You have the right to repay at any time all or any part of your loan, but not less than the regular installment.

Q. Can a disabled veteran taking a course under the vocational rehabilitation act continue his training for more than four years?

A. Training in excess of four years may be approved when the veteran's disability is such that no course of training which does not exceed four years will restore him to employability.

Andy's "Certificate of Service"

Andy Botkin's mighty proud of the first dollar he made. He's got it framed, and hanging beside his license, in the Garden Tavern.

Of course, there's a big difference between that dollar bill, and what Andy paid for the license giving him the right to earn it. Which prompts Willie Wells to say: "It's a heck of a note to have to pay to start a business."

"That's what I thought at first," says Andy. "But actually that piece of paper's my protection. And yours too! It helps keep out undesirables, and it means you've got to maintain decent standards—or answer the local law enforcement agencies and face the loss of your license. What's more, the brewers, in co-operation with the tavern keepers themselves, are backing up all it stands for with their program of self-regulation.

From where I sit, Andy's license is more than a permit to do business. It's a certificate of good behavior, and service to the town.
