Dogs Played an Important Part In Lincoln's Life, History Shows

To the long list of historical figures who were lovers of dogs, the name of Abraham Lincoln, martyr President, should be added, according to the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City.

Not only was Lincoln very fond and understanding of dogs and owned several during his life, but they in turn seemed to have loved and understood him, it states.

At Fort Wayne, Ind., in front of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Company building, is a huge bronze statue named "Abraham Lincoln—the Hoosier Youth," executed by Paul Manship, world-famed sculptor. This statue shows young Lincoln wearing a homespun shirt, buckskin trousers, and boots, his left hand caressing the head of a hound dog seated at his aide. This striking memorial has been praised as the truest as well as the most beautiful, concept of Lincoln as a young man ever given this country. The inclusion of the dog in the statue was intended to symbolize Lincoln's great love for animals and the many occasions upon which he showed kindness toward them.

Lincoln's constant companion as a child was a large hound owned by his father, Thomas Lincoln. The dog went with the boy on fishing and hunting' expeditions and on jaunts over the Kentucky hills and streams.

Once when playing in the woods young Abe and his boyhood chum, Austin Gollaher, found a dog with a broken leg. Abe made a splint for the injured leg, carried the dog to a nearby cave for shelter and brought food and water to it for several weeks. When the broken leg had healed Lincoln took the dog home and named it Honey. Abe's devotion to the dog was repaid, for Honey once brought aid to his owner when the boy had been trapped in a cave by falling boulders.

pulled by eight oxen. On one occasion the dog fell behind the caravan and didn't catch up until after the wagon had crossed a large stream. The stream was high and thick with broken ice, and the dog stood on the bank whining and howling as he saw his family disappearing. Lincoln could not endure the dog's distress, and as it was impractical to ford the stream again with the wagon; he waded through the icy water, rescued the dog and carried him over.

On leaving his home in Springfield, Ill., for the White House, Lincoln presented his dog Fritz to an old friend, John E. Roll. But in the White House another dog soon became a member of the President's family. Frequently when exhausted and worried Lincoln would seek relaxation by Miss Pauline Outlaw directed an interesting recreation hour through which everyone enjoyed a delightful time. Refreshments closed the meeting to meet with Mrs. R. D. Simmons in March.

Phrase-makers who refer to Distie as the Bible Belt have missed an important point. Without ignoring anything I should like to appraise the whole of America as a Bible Land. This is done humbly, for Americans have sometimes failed to follow the light of truth when that light burned brightly before them. Despite efforts of some modern historians to interpret the facts differently, our forebears developed this nation with religious principles in mind. They read their Bibles. Regardless of how many Americans have forsaken these fundamentals, it remains a nation that has been blessed bountifully by God. Our Best Seller

Where in the realm of recorded human experience can you find a land so blessed with liberty and opportunity, as in America? And where in history has there been a land so prosperous, where material blessings fit only for kings of the past may be enjoyed by each man and his neighbor? Let it be remembered that America's best seller is still the Bible, a phenomenon which is cause and not effect.

National Bible Week was celebrated this year from October 21 to 27. Where else among the nations can you find a land so dedicating itself? In calling America a land of Bibles, I affirm that the religious people of this nation constitute its great est asset. There now would be no hope for world peace, there would be no prospect of good citizenship at home, were this not so Practical Application For example, the Bible offers us the perfect formula to put an end to industrial strife. In fact, I could never expect fair play in industrial relations to come about in a land where the Golden Rule is unknown. We must not forget it, here in Americas Shall labor forget this rule of action and become a pressure group so determined to apply pressure upon industry that investment capital will be driven out and become unavailable to buy and replace tools? That is exactly the way to cut production and achieve lower and lower wages.

Industry aims at profits: it wants dividends for stockholders and capital for expansion. Should industry withhold fair wages and seek specialized legislation? No. that is the road to bankruptcy. Industry's first objective should not be its own welfare, but the welfare of labor and

Back to Fundamentals

Agriculture wants high prices for all it can produce. How shall it obtain these high prices? Through selfish, class legislation? No. that's the road to failure. Agriculture wants a prosperous market, with many people eating and living well. This it cannot attain by selfishly looking to itself. It must be more interested in the welfare of other
