

New Greyhound Coaches Glow in Dark

NEARLY 2,000 new Greyhound "Silveralides" coaches to be delivered this year are coated with a plastic material which reflects outlines of the entire bus in the headlights of oncoming vehicles, it was announced by George S. Engle (above), newly-elected President of the Atlantic Greyhound Corporation.

At Home On The Farm With The City Cousin

What is more attractive than a garden just chock-full of luscious growing vegetables that are just waiting to be pulled and eaten? To my mind, there is "nothing." But what about the garden that's hopelessly swamped with weeds — just double-daring any advances from the hoe?

That sounds like a far more realistic approach to spring visions of grandeur that rise from the patch-of-ground-behind-the-house referred to sometimes tenderly, sometimes in anguish, "Just look at that garden!"

And so, on a bright day when nature catches you with your guard down and vamps you with all the charm she can muster, beware, man, beware!

You look at that bunch of twisted, dried-up vines, the shambles of last year's mighty vegetable production effort, and what do you see? A tangle of dried-up vines, and all the summer's labor that went before them? You do not! With Nature lulling your senses, you dream happily of long, clean rows of tomatoes — bushels of fruit as red as a fire truck, and snap beans as they hang in the evening's dew; the pretty pea blossoms, the neat rows of beets, radishes and lettuce.

When this sickness comes over me, I take my enthusiasm to the garage, select a nice heavy hoe that blisters my hands just right, and set off for a session with the weeds.

Once I get my city-gear'd body in just the right position, and feel that tugging at the muscles in my back, you'd be surprised how my enthusiasm cools. Strolling nonchalantly back to the garage, I hang up my hoe. "Cousin," I say to myself, "Tomatoes will be cheap this year, anyhow."

Southern Farm Market Summary

Hog prices, influenced by increased marketings in the midwest, dropped sharply at most southern markets this week to wind up on Friday $2 or more lower than last week.

Cattle receipts increased at mat- or packing plants with prices off as much as $1.

Spring lambs increased with prices $2.50 to $4 a hundred pounds lower and old crop lambs off $1.

Fryer prices moved upward and Friday's prices ranged from 30 to 32 cents.

Egg receipts were heavier at several markets, but demand was strong, and prices held firm to higher.

Shipments of spring greens improved in quality and moved freely.

Cotton prices lost ground the first part of the week, advanced at mid-week, and closed Friday at an average of 36.01 cents a pound for Middling 15-16 inch. In South Atlantic and central parts of the belt, wet weather still slowed planting of the new crop.

Deer Poacher Draws Sixty Days On Roads

The booking-of-the-month — or of the century, for that matter — for violation of the State's game laws is credited to Protectors H. T. Bowmer, W. P. Floyd, and Charley Skipper of the Division of Game and Inland Fisheries. Topping the March report of prosecutions is their feat of obtaining a 60-day road sentence for a Brunswick County hunter whom they picked up for attempting to firelight a deer.

The March score of prosecutions totalled 193; fines paid by violators came to $1,809.21, and court costs, $862.05. Most frequent specific violation reported was hunting out of

Uncle Sam Says

This is getting ready time for my farmer nieces and nephews. Today's plowing and investment in money and labor may or may not pay off in rich crops. There's a big IF in every farm family's life. If the sun shines, if it doesn't rain too much, if we have a drought — if, if. However, there's one crop which has no "if" side. It's a crop of Savings Bonds, which grows steadily, rain or shine, wind or calm, year after year until it produces $4 for every $3. My city nieces and nephews can plant this crop, too, by taking and staying on the payroll savings plan or by arrangement with their bank. U. S. Treasury Department

State College Hints To Homemakers

"Go easy on heat" is the first and most important rule for cooking with cheese, which needs only enough heat to melt and blend with other ingredients. High heat or cooking too long makes it tough, stringy and leathery. When cooking cheese dishes on top of the stove, cook in a double boiler to protect the cheese from high heat. When cooking in the oven, have the heat low.

The second rule for cooking cheese is: Add it to other ingredients in very small bits rather than in one piece. Grating is the easiest way to break up cheqs that is fairly hard.

Here's a soap saving plan that will assure your having the right size soap for use at all times. Place a new bar of soap at the bathtub first. As the cake gets smaller, move it to the washbowl. Next move it to the kitchen. Put the last remaining scrap into a jar for soap jelly. Then place the soap jelly back in the bathroom for all sorts of cleaning jobs, such as cleaning the tub and washbowl.

ANOTHER CUT IN SHOOTING HOURS FOR WATERFOWL SEASON

Last year's regulations, which the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service rated the most drastic in history, cut the shooting period from 80 to 45 days, reduced the duck bag limit from 10 to 7 a day, and lopped half an hour from the shooting hours.

Now, word comes that a clamp-down, but not a complete shutdown, on the shooting probably will be necessary.

Estimates were based on an inventory, made last January at the close of the shooting, which puts the North American population of ducks and geese at 54,000,000, or 28,000,000 fewer than in January, 1946. This is the greatest one-year decline in the waterfowl population on record.

A slow acting nitrogen fertilizer that feeds crops over a long growing period has been developed by soil scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Where Cissy Spent Her Honeymoon

Most of the young newlyweds in our town spend their honeymoon at Roundstone Lake or Jackson Falls; why the Martins even went as far as New York City.

But when Cissy Cupper married the young Carter boy, they allowed as how they were going to spend their honeymoon right here.

"There's no place better than our town," Cissy says. "And I'd like to start married life at home, with things Dad and I are used to."

Makes sense, come to think of it. Folks naturally left them alone; and except for occasional visits to the Garden Tavern for a glass of beer, they stayed at home, getting used to married life.

My niece prefers traveling—and that's her right. But from where I sit, there's no place better for a honeymoon—or second honeymoon—than right at home—with your own possessions, good home cooking, and a friendly glass of beer or two—with the best companion in the world.
