First Lieut. N. J.—Ninth Infantry Division, whose patch in the shape of a red, white and blue octofol (eight-petaled flower) is a 15th century heraldic device worn by the British men of a family.

FINESSE: The 38th Infantry Regiment of the Second Infantry Division received at Camp Carson, Colo., the French Croix de Guerre with silver gilt star for what it did at Brest three years ago.

"This regiment," says the citation of the French Republic, "possesses the finest military qualifications. In August, 1944, it was charged with the taking of Brest and by skillful maneuver and despite severe losses, succeeded in breaking down, one by one, the resistance protecting the city. In spite of the strenuous resistance of the enemy, it seized the peninsula of Douailla, the support of the Brest front, and plunged into Brest from the sea. It was the first force that attacked itself by fighting street by street, house by house."

FACTS: "Our forces in Europe today," Lieut. Gen. J. Lawton Collins the War Department's chief of inspection, said recently, "are so small that they could easily be overwhelmed. We have the divisions in the Army today. Russia today is capable of putting 200 divisions in the field, have them in the field right now. The Soviet Union has over 10,000 tanks. Prior to Pearl Harbor, we had only 100 tanks."

YOU.. ONE-MAN HUSKING CREW

The new CORN HARVESTER converts your WC Tractor into a one-man picker in a half-hour or less. Tractor-mounted, it opens up the field on the first round. There's no hand picking — one man driving the tractor does the whole job.

The CORN HARVESTER is simple and compact. Over four-fifths of its weight is carried on the rear tractor wheels, giving extra traction for soft ground conditions. That's why it husks where heavier pickers slide down.

Above all, it's safe. Not a single dangerous moving part within reach of the driver's seat. Husking rolls are shielded, low-down, out of danger's way.

It's the mechanical picker family farms have waited for.

UNDER MOUNTED CORN HARVESTER
* ATTACHED IN 30 MINUTES BY ONE MAN

 NEW FEATURES ***
Stalk ejector keeps broken stalks out of wagon. Long, low-sloping gathering snouts glide under down stalks. Spider wheels lift low-hanging ears. Combination steel and rubber husking rolls with spring steel fingers pick clean, reduce shelling.
