State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Q. What can I do to control diseases and weeds in tobacco plant beds?

A. Cyanamid will control weeds but not tobacco diseases in the soil. Uramon will aid in killing weeds and will also kill such soil borne diseases as black root rot, black shank, root knot, and Granville wilt.

Use 1lb of Uramon and 1/2lb of Cyanamid per square yard of bed. Where there has been toxic effects, change to 1/2lb of Uramon and 1/2lb of Cyanamid per sq. yd.

The chemicals need moisture to become active. If the soil is drying out, give the bed a good watering soon after application.

Q. Is it necessary that hogs be fed a protein supplement made up of products from animal sources?

A. Yes. At least 1-5, by weight, of the protein supplement should come from animal sources, such as digester tankage or high grade fish meal. Two gallons skim milk or buttermilk will replace 1lb of fish meal or tankage. The remainder of protein may be from plant sources such as cottonseed meal, etc.

A Perfect Day

I would like to live one perfect day. For twenty-four hours be a perfect person in every way. And I would like to live that day in a perfect world, of every man, woman, boy and girl. And when you smiled at someone, you wouldn't receive a cool stare, and maybe sometimes even a cold-hearted glare; Instead, there would be a smile on every face, and no one would be rushing around in haste.

I would like to live one perfect day amid a world that was happy and gay. Let the world slow down just a little bit. It wouldn't hurt anyone for just one day to stop and quit all this hustle and bustle and running around. What does it get you, I ask, but a face with a frown.

Pause for awhile ----
 Leave your troubles behind and let's wander up in the hills; Listen to the birds sing and pick daffodils; Watch the clouds as they drift by, and then lift up thine voice and cry -- All the world I'll give, if I may, to live again, one more perfect day.

GERRY GAY.

State College Hints To Homemakers

An important rule for keeping home-canned foods in best condition is to put them away in a cool, dry place -- and promptly.

The cook who saves time by putting sweetpotatoes in the oven or kettle without peeling also saves vitamins. Tests show that when baked or boiled without peeling the vegetables retain up to 83% of their vitamin C.
