Entertained At Reception

Mr. and Mrs. John Watlington, Jr., of Reidsville and Major and Mrs. Hugh D. Maxwell of Washington, D. C., recently married, were tendered a pretty courtesy when relatives of the couples entertained at a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Maxwell on Saturday evening, Nov. 8.

Refreshments were served after which gifts were presented to the honored guests.

Smith - Swinson

Miss Ruby Mae Swinson, daughter of Mrs. Belle Swinson and the late Mr. Buck Swinson of Smith Township, Duplin County, and Mr. Leland Smith, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Smith of the same community were married in a quiet ceremony at the home of the bride Tuesday evening, November 4.

Rev. N. P. Farrior, pastor of the bride was the officiating minister.

The vows were spoken in the living room where decorations of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were arranged. The bride was attended. She wore a dark blue gaberdine suit with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The bride's mother chose for the wedding a suit of dark blue. The groom's mother also wore blue.

Both, the bride and the groom, are graduates of B. F. Grady High School and the groom spent some time in the Navy during World II.

They have returned from a trip to western North Carolina and are making their home with the bride's mother.

Uncle Sam Says

This Independence Day your Uncle Sam salutes millions of fellow Americans who buy and own Savings Bonds—the payroll savers, the Bond-a-Month farmers, professional people and the self-employed, the regular buyers of Savings Bonds in all walks of life—all of whom are showing good judgment in building many future financial independence days and many future financial independence years.

New Glove Styles Accent Fall Fashion

Latest in Glaces Pigskins in Style Accents for Blacks

A smooth gold cuff link accents these dressy day-time gloves of American-made capeskin. The glove is a four-button length with flared cuff. The link can be removed and other links inserted.

This is the word for ever popular pigskin classics this fall. This oatmeal-colored American-made shortie with button cuff and edging of saddle tan is dressy enough for casual and street wear.

The new "glove look" for fall puts the highlight on femininity. This American-made glove in beige provides a sophisticated accent for any black dress. Gauntlet is delicately shirred.

GOING hand in hand with the fashion silhouette for fall, new glove styles are long, full and dressy. Women are assured that their gloves will be in line with the fashion trend because designers of American-made leather gloves are putting the emphasis on sophistication and femininity.

Autumn glove styles call for bright colors, full contours, decoration and trim. The gloves are being made not only to complete the costume but to accent it as well.

Already an early favorite, the gauntlet is expected to be more popular than ever. It is being shown in bright colors to be worn buccaneer-style over suit sleeves, or with shirred or decorated cuffs for "after-five" wear. Gauntlets are being shown in capeskin, doe-skin, suede and even pigskin. Evening gloves are particularly luxurious this season, with gold or silver thread embroidery, gold kid decoration, and sprinklings of rhinestones or jewels. Slip-ons in eight or ten button lengths are being made in greater numbers than any time since the war.

Even the pigskin glove has taken on an air of sophistication. These casual gloves are being dressed up with contrasting trim in darker leather, whipcord stitching, and turn-back cuffs.

Besides the staple black, brown, white and navy, a wide range of glove colors will be available this year including all bright hues and pastels. With the new glove fashions and the classic styles, there will be American-made leather gloves to suit every taste.

Some of the gloves are so luxurious that they serve as the complete accessory to set off a plain dress or suit. Women who like to vary basic outfits with a change in accessories can create the effect of a whole new costume with the simple addition of a pair of sophisticated gloves.

The current trend toward the use of scarves, jewelry, gloves and other accessories to change the same dress many times over enables today's woman to make the most of her wardrobe. The new dressy leather gloves can be depended on to give a touch of color or decoration to an outfit.

Nearly all American-made capeskins, pigskins, suedes and doeskins are washable. Even the high colors of the fall and winter gloves will not fade or streak in washing.

Major and Mrs. Hugh D. Maxwell of Washington, D. C., and Mr. and Mrs. John Watlington, Jr. of Reidsville spent the week end with their parents Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Maxwell.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. May and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nash, Jr. of Kinston spent Sunday at Flora Macdonald College, Red Springs.

Rev. W. G. Lowe and Tommy Lowe visited at Carvers Creek near Whiteville Monday.

New Dentist

Dr. Wm. H. Gray, a native of Robersonville, N. C., is now associated with Dr. H. A. Edwards in the practice of Dentistry in Pink Hill. Dr. Gray received his training at the Medical College of Virginia. He comes to Pink Hill highly recommended.

Egg production per layer in September was 10.7 eggs compared with 10.6 last year and an average of 9.7 eggs.

Southern Farm Market Summary

Cotton prices advanced slightly during the week, averaging 32.35 cents per pound in the ten markets Friday, Nov. 7, as compared with 32.28 a week earlier. Reported sales totaled 313,500 bales.

Wheat markets were unsettled but feed grains strengthened. Demand for wheat was less urgent and as a result, spring wheat declined 5 to 10 cents per bushel, while winter wheat advanced 5 to 10 cents in Central western markets. Demand was urgent from feeders and feed manufacturers for corn. Soybeans advanced 10 cents and were quoted at around 3.52 at country points in the Chicago area.

Sweet potato prices were slightly stronger with offerings between 11,000 and 14,000 bushels daily.

Fryers and broilers held about steady, bringing from 30 to 31 cents on the farm. Hens were firm with prices unchanged at 24 and 26 cents on heavies and 18 to 22 on leghorns. Egg prices dropped slightly in Raleigh and Charlotte Raleigh's egg grading stations paid producers 63 cents per dozen for A, large, and 48-50 for current collections.

Hog prices registered further declines under heavy receipts with tops closing at $22.50 to $23.25.

Receipts of cattle were moderate 'o heavier with fat beef types ranging from 12.00 to 16.00 and good fat vealers from 24.00 to 27.00, and fat bulls from 14.00 to 16.00.

Peanut picking was light during the early part of the week due to unfavorable weather. The meat content of this year's crop is good; however, a high percentage of discolored hulls is making it difficult to secure good quality Jumbos and fancy peanuts for the selling trade.

You could step right up and get your fortune told. Stove-pipe hate and long stick brooms were in evidence all over the room.

The Goddess of the Harvest was right there. Costumed in bright colors, with a charming air; Bobbing for apples, there was a toast. Bon fires were lighted and a chest nut roast.

Jack-O-Lanterns hung from pumpkin vines. My, how the flickering lights do shine. Fun was had by one and all. At the gay Witches' and Ghosts' ball.

Halloween Party

The night of frolic dawned at last. With mystic rites held 'til midnight past, Witches and Witches paraded town. And black cats meowed all-round. Fortune telling was in vogue.

Weekly Tobacco Market News Report

Wilson, N. C., Nov. 10 — Eastern North Carolina flue-cured tobacco prices during the week ending Nov. 7 were stronger for leaf and non-descript grades but fairly steady for other offerings. Lower grade leaf on the orange side were up $2 to $3 with most red and green leaf $3 to $4. Nondescript ranged from 25c to $2 higher than prices paid the two days before the holiday. Although the proposed agreement with the British Government did not materialize, the demand by domestic manufacturers was sufficient to force these grades above prices paid on Monday and Tuesday of last week. Other grades which had been going for export and suffered setbacks as a result Announcement in the Eastern States was made primarily by the American Tobacco Company. The Credit Corporation support of the Com-manufacture at present.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that the Commodity Credit Corporation will buy rice on a competitive bid basis to meet export requirements.

World corn production in 1947-48 is forecast at about 4.8 billion bushels.

Sixty-one carloads of North Carolina-grown snap beans are providing enrichment for school lunches and the menus for State Institutions in a dozen states.
