A few weeks ago, my daughter, Jean, and her husband returned from Europe, where John has been with the Army of Occupation. They scoured our city, searching vainly for an apartment but couldn't find a thing. But we solved the problem by turning Jean's old bedroom into a living room, and remodeling the guest room for a kitchen and dinette. Although tiny—it's a complete apartment—and so located in the house that it's private.

One of our major concerns was the location of comfortable, good sleeping equipment that could double as living room furniture during the day. We found just what we wanted at our leading department store—and both of us were simply amazed at the variety of well-made, really comfortable "double duty" pieces available. Did you know that there are sectional sofa beds, convertible love seats, and chairs that make into beds? I was surprised to learn that these pieces are available in Modern, 18th Century and Early American designs!

For Jean's living room we selected a modern sofa bed... that transforms easily into a roomy double bed. For our study—to replace the guest room—we chose twin mattresses and springs on legs, slip-covered with a sturdy material, to double as lounges during the day.

Jean tells me that her sofa bed is one of the most comfortable beds she's ever slept on, which is most important, isn't it? I believe good sleep is the first requisite to good health, don't you? I've obtained several copies of an interesting booklet, "Set the Stage for Sleep". I'll be glad to send you one free. Address: Frances Ainsworth, 234 E. Ohio St., Chicago 11, Illinois.

Mother Won't Answer Her Questions

High school-age girls are young ladies in this modern day and age, and mothers who refuse to answer their intelligent questions and try to look upon high school students as mere children, make a serious mistake according to the new Hollywood production, "Mom and Dad". In the scene above, June Carlson is shown questioning her mother (Lois Auslin) on hygiene problems but she receives only "hush-hush" as an answer. The girl experiences a series of heart-breaking troubles because of the lack of proper knowledge. "Mom and Dad", with Elliot Forbes, America's famous hygiene commentator in person, will open an engagement at the Model Theatre on March 9.

BEER—America's Beverage of Moderation

THIS TWO-FOLD OBLIGATION
Raise on The Beer Retailers of North Carolina

To his fellow citizens, the beer dealer owes a law-respecting conduct of a business which they have given him license to operate...

A business, incidentally, that brought $1,704,021.12 in tax money for the third quarter of 1947, alone, to the counties and municipalities of North Carolina wherein beer is licensed to be sold. (Hereafter, distribution of this tax money will be made annually and local governments will continue to profit generously.)

To the Beer industry, the beer retailer owes careful guarding of its good reputation.

Assisting in the fulfilling of these obligations is this Committee's major work. Our program of Self-Regulation, begun in 1939, has had notable success in weeding out those who treated these obligations lightly.

Success, yes—and it has come largely from support given by our North Carolina public, press and law-enforcement agencies. Thank you—and let's continue our cooperative work!
