

Social Security Aids Widow & Children

When Mrs. Hulda McC. Koonce, widow of Walter C. Koonce, filed a claim recently for social security benefits for her four children, she became the 7,847th person in this area to receive monthly social security benefits, according to N. A. Avera, manager of the office in Wilmington.

"Benefits that will be paid to the widow for the four children are based on wages earned by the late husband from January 1937 to the time of his death," Mr. Avera said. "In recent years he had been employed by the B & M Construction Company. The widow will receive benefits for her youngest child until he reaches 18. Each child will receive a benefit until he or she is 18, unless they should get married before then. Although the benefits will stop when her youngest child reaches age 18, widow's benefits will start again when she is 65, if she does not remarry."

"Since the youngest child was born March 30, 1946, he will receive payments for over 8 years. The benefits of this family total $33.16 a month. If nothing happens to cause suspension or termination of benefits for any of her children they will receive a total of $5,471.40 in social security benefits. This, of course, does not include any possible payment the widow might receive after she becomes 65 years of age."

"These payments to the children are not charity," he explained, "they are social security insurance benefits paid for by the husband when his employer deducted one percent from his wages for social security taxes. This is the way all social security payments are figured. They are paid as a matter of right to those who qualify, regardless of need."

"It should be clearly understood," he said, "that Mrs. Koonce has authorized the release of this confidential information so that others may appreciate, as she does, the benefits derived from social security. The Koonce family is typical of other families in this area receiving social security benefits."

Mr. Avera feels that many additional persons would be drawing old-age and survivors insurance benefits if they would but realize that they are eligible. Anyone interested in filing a claim, or securing information about any phase of the social security program is urged to call at or write to the Social Security Administration Field Office Custom House, Wilmington, N. C. There is also available to anyone a pamphlet "Insurance for Workers and Their Families". It is a brief explanation of how social security works. It is called I. S. C. 35.
