few years ago but the little white chapel still stands, inviting all who will, to come and worship. Rev. William Shaw served as pastor for several years, driving from his home in Kenansville once a month with horse and buggy. Other pastors have been Peter McIntyre, George Matthis, Marion Murray and Druary Jones. About 18 months ago the Bowden

In the village of Bowden there stands a little white church, always glad to serve those of the community, who will come to worship there. In 1905, this little church, the Bowden Presbyterian Church, was organized by Rev. Peter McIntyre, then pastor of the Faison Presbyterian Church, who saw the need of a church in this community. The lead was given by Mr. and Mrs.

Lovett Lee and soon the building was completed, and services, previously held in a little county school house, were well attended by the fine people of the community of all denominations, and altho' owned by the Wilmington Presbytery, a Union Sunday School was organized and down thru the years, this has continued. Records of early church officers and members were lost in a fire a Church was reorganized with the Warsaw Presbyterian Church and joined the Warsaw congregation in calling Rev. Eugene Clarke as pastor. Under his leadership the work is active and cooperative. The Sunday School has a splendid membership and attendance, a large number of whom walk one or more miles to attend. The Youth Fellowship Group has a membership of 25, fine young people who are now adding a recreation room to the church. Mr. R. Archer Williams, has served for several years as Sunday School Supt., and Silas Cotton is the fine young president of the Youth Fellowship Group. A real community spirit is evidenced by the attendance of people of all denominations at this little church and here one can believe in "the brotherhood of man."
