Insect Control Keeps Dog Happy in Summer

While human being may refer to hot weather as "the good old summer time," there is nothing good about it from a dog's viewpoint, as it generally means the flea and tick season in full swing, according to the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City.

Fleas and ticks not only make a dog miserable but can also endanger the dog's health and perhaps that of his owner.

Few people seem to realize that aside from the annoyance they cause the dog, fleas cause many skin irritations and also carry the eggs of the dog tapeworm. If a flea-ridden dog, in biting himself, swallows one of these insects, he then may become infested with tapeworm and suffer the effects caused by these debilitating internal parasites.

Flea control is a simple matter for the dog-owner, now that DDT is available in good supply. A thorough powdering every two or three weeks with flea powder containing five to ten percent DDT will keep a dog free of fleas during the entire season that these pests are active. Beside powdering the dog, the careful owner should see that his bedding is changed at frequent intervals. Use of the DDT powder in the dog's bed or sleeping box is also helpful.

Ticks, beside causing irritating skin conditions and a weakened condition in dogs, also present a source of danger to humans. Dogs in areas where there is a heavy infestation of ticks should be sprayed regularly through the summer with one of the several effective tick remedies now available. Ticks should never be removed by hand, but should be picked off with tweezers and dropped in a can or jar of kerosene.

Detroit, Mich. Her mother and aunt Mrs. Anne Meintel returned with Mrs. Pope for a visit.

Mayor Newman Willis.
It was not long until Levi Knowles of Rose Hill, an ill-looking man let it be known that he had lost a considerable amount of money. He identified the purse and its contents and same was turned over to him. He became the happiest man of the day and then it was Mobile Wade's time to be happy. Instead of just saying thanks and walking away, Levi rewarded Wade handsomely, according to Willis.

How to Prosper
Many workers think that wages are paid out of profits. This is not so. Money for the work comes right out of sales and goes directly to pay-rolls, just as money for profit comes out of sales and goes for the use of tools and the replacement of tools. When profit is high, the chances are that wages will be good. This is nearly always true unless taxes come in and take too large a chunk, or unless the company is so much in debt that profits cannot be used for new tools.

If I were an employee of a company or working in an industry, I would be very much concerned that my employer makes a profit. I would do all I could to make a profit for him. Knowing that my chances of having a good job and of growing with the company would depend upon the success of the whole enterprise, I would work hard to keep my employer "out of the red." Then I would know that my efforts really are building a greater America.
