The Melody Lingers

Our experience with rent control has underscored this fact: the longer we permit political controls to linger upon the scene, the harder it is to get rid of them. This is a good lesson for us to learn. For two years in succession now, our Congress has decided to keep the controls, while adding some "de-control" features that never seem to get rid of the controls. So, we still have rent control.

These efforts to control the nation's housing by tampering with rental units is actually making it difficult for the country to come back to a more normal housing situation following the dislocations of wartime economy. Rent control creates very few fair and square deals between renter and landlord. Indeed, it brings more injustices than it corrects.

But the worst thing about rent control right now is that it keeps housing scarce. Millions of rental units would become available at once, if it were not for rent control. Veterans and others in need of housing are suffering under the direct burden of rent control.

Let Industry Do It.

It has been said that the nation has more housing per person today than it had in 1940. Yet we're worse off. We need more housing, yes. But as long as we have rent control, we may not expect more rental housing. The hazards of control and its well-known injustices are too easily remembered by those who could offer rent housing. They will not undertake this kind of enterprise, when the count is already against them. Moreover, the private builders of the nation do not want to be compelled to compete with public housing, which is subsidized by tax money.

The truth is this: if government would get out of the scramble, private building would soon meet the demand for rental units. Competition would then go to work in keeping rents at reasonable levels.

Depend On Incentives.

Yet, there are those who work hard trying to keep the government in the housing business. These agitators want rent control because rent control keeps the building industry in a dither and creates these artificial shortages. These tinkers want rent control because they believe it will help bring socialized housing.

When private money is deliberately scared away from investing in rental housing, then the next step is to holler for the government to put up housing. Actually, rent control and public housing are two pieces out of the jig-saw picture-puzzle of socialist and collectivist controls that the agitators are trying to foist upon the nation.

Once a government agency has power to tell you how much rent you must pay, whether you can live in a private house or a government project, then we are getting to the place where we can join up with Russia and all the other Communist experimenters.

The Socialists and Communists know that it sounds good to plead for "adequate" housing. They claim to be fighting for the people, against all sorts of bogeymen. But the people are not told that rent control, together with public housing, will go a long way toward destroying the welfare and the future of our free economy in America. We must in the future depend upon incentives and fair competition. Then there will be no housing problem in America.

IN 1947, 83 per cent of the record total of 2,874,471 cords of pulpwood used by International Paper Company's Southern Kraft Division traveled to the mills by railroad. Company conservation engineers inspect pulpwood arriving at the mills to be sure good cutting practices have been followed.

Uncle Sam Says

You howled your head off when a home town player, bat on shoulder, let a perfect pitch wham into the catcher's mitt for the third strike. Well, you'd have the same right to howl if you saw the man who works next to you miss the ball on this tax reduction business. By taking the extra money and putting it into United States savings bonds through the payroll savings plan he actually would be hitting a home run for security for self and country.

Your country needs millions of savers now to preserve the nation's security. America's security is your security.

Uncle Sam Says

Regardless of the heat wave, you can't afford to be lazy about your future, because the future holds for you what you hold for the future. Ben Franklin didn't make this statement, but any United States Savings Bonds payroll saver who works with you could claim this bit of advice as his or her own. All he has to do is to sign his name once on the card for the United States Savings Bonds payroll savings plan. His employer does all the rest. Three dollars saved through the payroll savings plan get Mr. Summertime Lazybones four dollars 10 years hence. U. S. Treasury Department
