Barden Fights For Fair Spud Plan

(From News-Argus)
Agriculture Department officials promised to answer by Dec. 15 complaints that the price support program is working to the detriment of eastern potato farmers.

The move came following a two hour conference between Agriculture Secretary C. F. Brannan and potato growers, Congressmen, and agriculturalists from North Carolina, New Jersey and Virginia. Rep. Graham A. Barden, of New Bern, was chosen to direct the case for the potato growers.

At the end of the conference, Mr. Barden reported he believed Secretary Brannan had been favorably impressed by the case put forward, and expressed hope that the meeting would bring some relief to eastern potato growers hard-hit by the government program. Both Rep. Bonner and Barden said they had been promised by Ralph S. Triggs, Deputy Administrator of the Production and Marketing Administration in the Agriculture Department, that an answer would be drawn up to the case presented by the East Coast growers.

The argument was over the formula on which the potato price support program is based. The Department has announced a reduction of potato price support from 90 percent to 80 percent of parity. At the same time it announced an acreage quota system for potatoes based on the number of acres planted in each of the states during the period 1943 to 1948.

Barden called the basis of the program a "trick formula" and said "we are tired of having such a formula thrown at us every time we turn our backs." He said the formula seemed set up to serve the West Coast potato growers, and pointed out that the potato crop was being shifted from East to West as a result of the Department's price support program.

of the East Coast growers. Barden made three requests. First, that the Department choose a permanent base period on which to set up the price-support formula. He argued the present base period, 1943 to 1948, favored the West Coast crops and suggested a longer period, from 1937 to 1948.

Second, he asked for an "across the board" reduction in acreage uniform in all states. The present formula, he charged, appears to be stacked to favor certain states—mainly California.

Third, he asked for a uniform set of support prices for all growers. In this regard, too, he said western growers were favored by the present program.
