

THE AMERICAN WAY

No King Wanted

By: GEORGE PECK

For countless centuries billions of men have struggled for the right to govern themselves. When Thomas Jefferson, John Hancock and a group of serious-minded individuals wrote the American Declaration of Independence, they electrified the masses of people the world over.

Few outside of the thirteen colonies thought the colonists would win the glorious rights as pronounced in the Declaration of Independence. But, with the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, our forefathers had won the right to set up a kind of government of their own choosing—with no King to head it.

Five years later the Constitution was written—the first document in history that put every citizen on equal terms with all other citizens, insofar as his political and legal rights were concerned. No greater sacrifice ever was made than that of the pioneers of the thirteen colonies to secure this equality before the ballot box and before the law. Many thousands died and many other thousands suffered terrible privation under arms to win freedom for this country.

For a century and a half we seemed to have a sincere appreciation of this heroic struggle. During that 150 years we built the greatest civilization this world has ever known, and America became the envy of every other nation. Now, many Americans would relegate that sacrifice to the scrap-heap. They have lost that burning desire to be a free people with equal suffrage. Have they come to the conclusion that we are no longer fit to govern ourselves and that we should turn that job over to a King and a retinue of bureaucrats?

Last January 20, we witnessed what was termed the inauguration of a president. To many of us the spectacle took on the terrifying aura of a coronation, and the broad, dictatorial powers since asked for by our Chief Executive indicate that he, himself, believes he exchanged his Missouri sombrero for a crown upon that gala occasion.

Congress must refuse to grant the Administration the authority to impose peace-time controls, to fix prices, to put Uncle Sam into the steel business or any other business, at its caprice or whim. Otherwise, the sacrifice made by our forefathers will have been in vain.

Let your Congressman and U. S. Senators know that you are bitterly opposed to reverting back to the status of "subject"—that you wish to remain a "free citizen"—and remind them that Kings have been very much out of style in America since 1776.

By the Declaration of Independence and the victorious struggle of those heroes of the thirteen colonies, the principle of "The Divine Right of the Individual" was established here in America, and "The Divine Right of Kings" was definitely disestablished. Notice was served to the world that in the United States no King is wanted.
