SPRING COMES TO HOLLYWOOD -

THE STARS PREVIEW THEIR NEW BONNETS

Hollywood—birthplace of new stars and new fashions—is brimming with brims, a flower with flowers, atuned to turbans. The stars are getting a head-start on the season with previews of their new Easter bonnets. They're small; the cloche is more becoming than ever with hair molded to the Season's First Suit shape of the head. They're big; a pir-ture hat with side width or large trans-parent brim is a glamor-must. And parent brim is a glamor-must. And they're medium; especially the asymmetric hat slanted down to cover u one complete side of the head (usually the right side) and expose a clean-cu charming profile.

Whatever your demands, you can surely be satisfied this millinery season. One of the hits of the John-Frederics, Inc. collection is the "Southpaw Sailor made of men's hard natural straw, but somehow marvelously feminine. In the beflowered department, Walter Florell has a head-hugging turban of white and yellow shasta daisies inspired by the hairdos of the ancient Greeks. Flowers again come to the fore in Lily Dache's prize-winning profile bonnet made entirely of lillies-of-the-valley.
