Business Men Meet

A regular meeting of the Business Men's Club was held in the Recreation Hall at the home of Dr. H. A. Edwards Monday night.

One of the projects for the year, the installation of curbing and gutters for the business section of the town, was reported almost completed. The club decided to observe the Thursday afternoon closing of the stores for the summer months, beginning April 31.

Officers were elected at this meeting to serve for the new year. They are J. A. Worley, Pres.; Reuben King, Vice Pres.; Ike Stroud, Secy and Treas.

The feed committee served a chicken stew.

The meetings are held monthly on the 3rd Monday night.

Six years of continuous drought came to an end during the snow season of the past winter.

Young Girl Dies From Wreck; Cleveland Turner Being Held

Clyde Faye Rochelle, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rochelle of near Jacksonville died last Friday of injuries received on April 10 in an automobile accident which injured five persons.

Cleveland Turner of Pink Hill is under $2,500 bond pending a hearing scheduled for Wednesday, April 27, but whether the bond will be increased because of the death was not known at this writing.

The girl suffered multiple injuries when the pickup truck in which she was riding was struck in the rear by the car driven by Turner on N. C. 53 near Harris Creek. The child was thrown into the road by the impact. She and her parents were enroute to a church baptism at the time of the accident.

Highway Patrolman A. E. Cox said that Turner was charged with reckless and careless driving, failing to have adequate brakes on his car, and assault with a deadly weapon.

Funeral services were held at the family cemetery in Jacksonville, N. C., Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Henry Jones and Rev. Joe Whaley of Richlands.

Surviving in addition to her parents are three brothers, Elmer, Reuben and Earl; and four sisters, Mrs. Robert Rochelle, Elaine, Julia of the home.

Civics Club Installs Officers

At a regular meeting of the Pink Hill Civics Club held at the school on Friday night, the following officers for the new year were installed: T. J. Turner, Pres.; Rudolph Harper, Vice Pres.; Ethro Hill, Secy.; and Woodrow Jackson, Treas. About 45 members were present.

Local Boys Win Honors

In the annual judging contest for livestock and dairy cattle in the Southwood Federation of Future Farmers of America, held at Richlands recently, John E. Johnson's team of the Pink Hill School comprised of Bobby Hicks, Robert and Elbert Smith, took first place for Dairy Judging and Millard Jenkins, Donald and James Howard ranked second in livestock and swine judging.

Southern Farm Market Summary

Hog prices continued downward this week in spite of reduced receipts at virtually all marketing points, and declines amounted to mostly 50 cents a hundred pounds. Cattle marketings increased at most southern markets with prices holding mostly steady.

The general trend of the major poultry markets was weak with prices declining in all areas. Heavy fryers were in good demand for the Easter trade at 2 cents lower to 1 cent a pound higher.

At Thursday's close, when spot cotton markets began their Easter holidays, middling 15-16 inch cotton reached the highest point of the season to date at 33.19 cents per pound - $2.30 a bale above the previous Friday's 32.73-cent level.

Affled on the cotton front, boll weevil emergence in parts of South Carolina was reported the most numerous in 12 years - 3,969 per acre, compared with 2,710 per acre last year.

Nearly 200 tree-planting machines are now in use in the U. S. say the Forest Service. The machines work well on level areas and on slopes up to 30 per cent.

Window Shutters

Window shutters originate in the Orient and were used to give protection from the weather, their chief use now is to add color and beauty to a home.

Color is the key color in design and the shutters should be painted to blend with the roof. If the shutters are painted with green asphalt or a patching green or a bright orange-red would be a good color for the shutters.

When the asphalt shingles are replaced with mixtures of two or three colors, shutters which match the more prominent color of the roof would be attractive.

Home Sweet Home

By Mary House

Jim always says that spring slips in on a generous coating of elbow grease. A sympathetic husband's not the worse kind; so I never confess that spring cleaning's not the cyclone he thinks it is.

Every woman knows that a little organization and feminine know-how can take theirk out of work.

Take my cleaning basket, for instance; it's my best helper. Square and sturdy, it's designed to fit my own cleaning needs and to whittle down household mileage. Now I don't have to trudge back downstairs for that bottle of polish or dust cloth I forgot. Everything I need is where I want it when I want it.

The kit is fitted with a compartment for dusting rags, another for empty glass coffee jar for oily polishing rags. All in their places are bottles of wax, ammonia, lemon oil, touchup polishes (for scratches), dry cleaner, and bleach (for those stubborn bathtub stains).

In it also are metal polish, window cleaner, scouring powder, a bottle of glue (handy for quick repairs), and a box of tacks and nails.

You can choose your tools to fit your job; mine include several types of brushes, a window squeegee, a whisk broom, hammer, screwdriver, and an all important feather duster.

I not only use this duster for furniture but find it a must for keeping my Venetian blinds fresh and new. Blinds really don't need special care if treated like furniture.

Here are a few rules I've discovered regarding Venetian blind care. Dust them regularly with your duster—away from the tapes. In the city, wipe them down once a month with plain soap 'n water or a weak ammonia solution. Never, never allow dust or soot to accumulate on the slats.

Remember always to wipe the blinds dry when exposed to rain or snow. Don't ever dunk them in the bathtub—you'll warp and fade the tapes. You wouldn't bathe your furniture and if you keep in mind that Venetian blinds should be treated like furniture they'll lead a long, trouble-free life.
