Prayer in Pain

Lesson for May 29, 1949

THE SHADOW over Gethsemane is deep. We can scarcely see the tortured figure under the moonlit olive trees. If Jesus' closest friends, in that hour, were strangers to his soul, we cannot dare to penetrate all the secrets of that fateful hour. Yet while we cannot know all, we can know enough; enough to support us in our own time of darkness and of pain.

Mark uses very strong language to describe the state of Jesus' mind in Gethsemane. The two Greek words he uses, translated in the King James version "sore amazed" and "very heavy," are translated by the Revised Standard Version "greatly distressed and troubled;" by Goodspeed, "distress and dread;" by Moffatt, "appalled and agitated." As our hymn says,

"We know not how, we cannot tell What pains He had to bear."

Still, we do know of some of the burdens which weighed so terribly on Jesus' mind and heart that night.

Power of Darkness ONE THING that must have troubled our Lord was lack of sympathy. Peter, James and John were comfortably asleep, evidently without the slightest notion of what he was suffering. But there was worse than lack of sympathy, somewhere in the dark city one of Jesus' supposed friends, the man called Judas, was even then slinking through the alleys with murder in his heart.

Jesus well know what was in store for him. He knew the Sanhedrin would call him a blasphemer, he knew what the Romans would do with him, once they got their hands on him. Worse than this must have been the tragic sense of failure.

"I would, but ye would not," he had said in tears to this very city: a city full of enemies who should have been his friends, of unbelievers who should have believed, a city he loved, but which had nothing for him but thorns and a cross.

All this was on Jesus' heart that night—and as many Christians believe, far more. One of the most profound Christian thinkers has suggested that the heaviest, most painful shadow on Jesus' white soul was the sense of guilt, not his own but for the sins of the world.

Blood and the Angel

SO JESUS PRAYED. Even in the cool spring night his forehead was covered with sweat, falling to the rocky ground like dripping blood. Never rose prayer from a more tortured heart. And what came of it? In one sense, the prayer was not answered. The cup did not pass from him, he must drink it to the last bitter drop. The prayer did not remove the pain. Yet in a deeper sense, the prayer of Christ was fully answered. "Not as I will, but as Thou wilt," he breathed. The prayer that sets one's own will in line with the will of God, whatever His will may be, is the prayer that always finds answer. At the end, there was no release, but power. "An angel came and strengthened him."

What Prayer Can Do

JESUS "LEARNED obedience by the things which he suffered" (Heb. 5:8). We can share his lesson. The hour of pain is not the hour to begin praying; those who have not learned prayer before, will scarcely know how to pray in a time of agony. Yet the time of pain is not the time to give up praying. When the dark hour comes, Jesus did not throw aside his faith, he prayed more intensely than ever before. Prayer does not explain pain, much less explain it away.

Prayer does not always get rid of pain, even though in many cases the prayer of faith works cures where doctors fail. What true prayer does always is to set the one who prays in tune with the will of God even when that will is not as our own.

Prayer does not bring us all the answers to the riddles of existence. It does bring power to bear what God sends us. For God's answer to those He loves is not always escape, but it is always endurance.

Full Military funeral rites were held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the graveside in the Miller family cemetery in the Hallsville community for Pfc. Grover Lee Miller, who was killed in action in Belgium on January 16, 1945.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Miller; one brother, Roland Miller of the home; three sisters, Mrs. Claudie Jon of Warsaw, Mrs. Elwood Groves of Rose Hill, and Mrs. N. E. Southland of Wallace; his maternal grandfather, S. J. Williams of Beaufort; and a number of nieces and

State College Hints To Home Makers

A well planned garden can provide the family with most if not all the vitamins A and C needed in daily diet from early summer to late fall, plus such important minerals as iron. Garden vegetables also furnish the bulk or roughage helpful to normal digestion.

Tomatoes, most popular of all home garden vegetables, offer vitamin C generously, especially if they ripen in the sun.

For vitamin A all the green and yellow vegetables are helpful. By careful planning, a wide variety of greens is possible from spring until frost.

In the yellow vegetable crop there are carrots, squash and yellow sweet corn for the gardener's consideration.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness shown us during the recent revival of our son and brother Pfc Grover L. Miller. Leslie Miller and family

Its main use is to adapt the current in the transmission lines to your use in your home. But transformers seem to be used for a lot of other things. This mother bird used one as a nesting place without giving thought to what that would do to Tide Water service along those lines! Certain squirrels seem to fancy transformers as good safe nurseries. All that means is a rather sudden end to the wild life—service interruption—and grief for Tide Water. What happens to transformers is a good example of what we're up against in giving you the best possible service. But that's what we're here for—all 420 of us! Stringing lines, repairing transformers, testing meters, merchandising appliances, driving trucks—every one in Tide Water is committed to bringing you the best possible service at the lowest possible cost.

One big source of pride to all of us is that Tide Water brings you good neighborly service at costs below the average for all cities on the Atlantic seaboard. And, if you care to check, we'll be glad to show you how this is so!
