Things To Be Done In Cultivating Better Timber

Many things can be done to make our woodlands more productive. One is cutting out diseased and deformed trees, which may be sold as fire wood, pulp wood, or be used at home. Another is thinning out thick growths of young trees giving remaining trees a chance to grow. One thing that should be done to keep our woodland productive is "Harvest Mature Trees". By harvesting mature trees, not only do you keep your land productive by opening the stand up for young growth, but seedlings are allowed to come up, assuring you of a future crop of timber.

Timberland should be harvested much in the same way as ordinary farm crops, that is, on tracts where all the timber is mature, and should be harvested, some reservation must be made to assure us a future crop. This is done by leaving seed trees. A seed tree is a well formed thrifty tree of at least 12 inches in diameter at breast height, or a good well formed seed bearing tree of any size. Seed trees should be left scattered, at the rate of 5 to 8 per acre.

If you have to seed trees, seedlings can be obtained at $2.50 per thousand by contacting the State Forester, N. C. Dept. of Conservation and Development, Div. of Forestry, Raleigh.

There is a Forester that you can call on with your problems in connection with forestry. He is Mr. D. E. Coleman, Jr., Farm Forester, at the District Office of the N. C. Forest Service, Whiteville, N. C., or contact your SCounty Forest Warden, Mr. Ralph Miller or your County Agent, Mr. L. F. Weeks.

Blonde Hillary Brooke

It is Miss Brooke who is really responsible for the uproarious shenanigans that take place. On search for a rare find of uncut diamonds she hires Abbott and Costello to lead her safari through the dangerous bush. Costello claims to have a map that will lead them to the treasure, but mid-way on the journey, the map is found to be as unrelated to the bush as are the comedians themselves and through it all the audience is treated to a riot of hilarious sequences in which the famous team runs up against lions, monkeys, crocodiles and other man-eating jungle animals with breathtaking results.

Action in Warner Bros. tradition highlights "Smart Girls Don't Talk", starring Virginia Mayo, Bruce Bennett and Robert Hutton, which shows Wednesday at the Capital. The drama, etched against a colorful panorama of big city life, packs enough excitement for a pair of films.

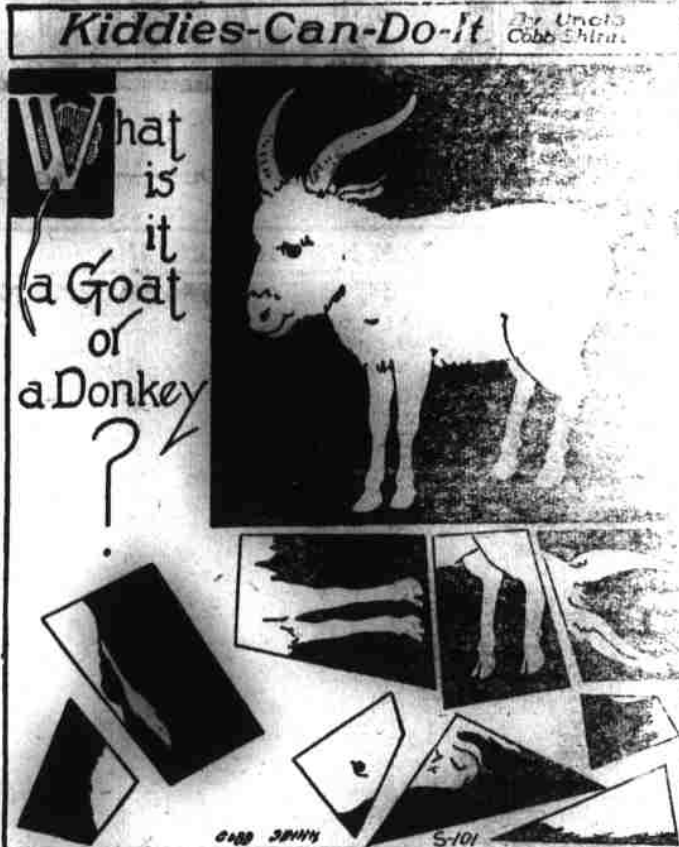

Virginia plays a society girl whose gambling gets her into trouble. Opposite her is Bruce, in the assignment of an ace gambler. He promises to make good the losses of his patrons at his swank gambling establishment after a hold-up, and it is this opening incident that tees off the rapid-flow of action with murder entering the picture when Miss Mayo's young brother, played by Robert Hutton, is killed. Miss Mayo plots to avenge her brother's death and another killing takes place in which she has indirectly figured.

George Brent says at last he's seen everything, film-wise, he's been through tragedy and comedy and romance in scores of roles. But for the first time he is playing a hard and relentless father, with no heart affair in "Red Canyon" on Thursday and Friday.

The star is seen as the rancher whose wife was killed in an early gun battle with a band of desperadoes. He has raised his motherless daughter with an iron hand and has given his only feelings to the thoroughbred race horses he breeds.

Lawless frontier days, when outlaws tried to smuggle government gold across the Texas border into Mexico, come to blazing life in Durango Kid's "Trail To Laredo", which shows Saturday, along with "Shep Comes Home", a story of a boy and his dog.

The Bell Weevil Survey for the first week of July showed cotton fields infested heavily enough to warrant dusting. The survey covered 20 southeastern and eastern counties.

There are three certain pieces, which if put in just the right places, will make a picture of a donkey. The other six pieces if placed in the right places will make a picture of a goat. If you would use all the nine pieces at one time I don't know what it would make; try and see.

Mrs. J. W. Whaley Age 72, Dies

Mrs. J. W. Whaley, 72, died at the home of her son, Luther Kennedy, Beulaville, Friday afternoon following a long illness.

Funeral services were conducted from the home Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Rev. L. N. Manning, of Fountain, officiated. Interment was in the family cemetery.

Mrs. Whaley is survived by five sons, Melvin and George Whaley of Pink Hill, Thurman Whaley and L. H. Kennedy of Richlands, and Luther Kennedy of Beulaville; three daughters, Mrs. Lonnie Marshburn,

Entertainments

For next week's entertainment the Capital Theatre brings you several good pictures. Let's see what the reviews have to say about them:

Monday and Tuesday you will see "Africa Screams". The so-called Dark Continent will never be the same again. Not since the team of Abbott and Costello made it their happy hunting ground in "Africa Screams".

Besides this intrepid comic team, the cast includes famous lion-trainer, Clyde Beatty and equally famous Brinz-Em Back Alive Frank Buck. Also former heavyweight champion Max Baer, his brother, Buddy Baer, comedians Joe Besser and Shemp Howard, and, as the sole woman in the cast, beautiful
