History Of Warsaw Cannery

The Warsaw Cannery under the management and direction of R. F. Wadkins is a fair example of what cooperation and good management can do towards making a project successful.

This is the 4th year of operation and approximately 10,000 cans of fruits and vegetables have been canned there during the summer months. Back in 1944 about 35,000 cans was the grand total, that being during the war years when food was scarce and people realized the necessity and importance or home canning.

The cannery building itself was the original shed used for the o d strawberry market. This was donated by the old town board of trade along with $60. The actual construction was done by Mr. Wadkins and his school boys. In the months of January and February they went out into the woods an gathered dogwood trees and sold them to local people, applying the proceeds to this construction. They also cut pipe, installed plumbing poured the concrete floor and made tables. Duplin County contributed $300 to ward the building. The Federal Government donated equipment inside the building. E. F. Strickland, formerly of Warsaw, now living in Dunn, gave square tanks and H. R. Hipp cut the tops off to make cooking vats. The late B. C. Sheffield, Sr., donated drums to be used. Sterling Marriner gave a gas tank to be used for a cooking

The primary purpose for opening the primary purpose tor opening the cannery was for strictly educational purposes - to teach people to can in tin, to prepare and preserve summer surplus of produce. It is a non-commercial project and is operated by Mr. Wadkins and his assistants at absolute cost. The equipment is school property, the land belongs to the Town of Warsaw and the town donates the running water used. In all the cannery has been a great success and co inues to operate. Let's give Mr. Wadkins credit for its success for e has done a great job and is to
