Beef Cattle Meeting Is Called Sept. 8

During recent months several farmers have expressed a desire to purchase foundation breeder stock for establishing a herd of beef cattle. One farmer interested in buying some heifers and a bull, is invited to a meeting at the Agricultural Building in Kenansville next Thursday night, September 8, at 7:30. At this meeting, plans will be made for assisting farmers to get the breeding stock they desire. Within the next few weeks, a large number of heifers and feeder stock will be sold in the western part of North Carolina and Virginia. This is probably the best time of the year to purchase breeder and feeder cattle, since the commercial producers will be offering most of their spring crop for sale soon.

"RED RIVER" Is Great Picture

The story tells of Thomas Dunson's safari from Texas to Kansas, as the head of a group of over 500 cowboys who are bringing north a herd of cattle, numbering in the thousands, to

Weekly Tobacco Market News Report

August 27—Grade averages were lower in most instances on flue-cured tobacco markets opening week of the 1949 season as compared with the first week of last year. Volume of offerings was extremely heavy with large quantities of inferior tobacco appearing. Leaf grades were from $1 to $9 per hundred below average's established opening week last year. Smoking leaf, cutters, and better lugs ranged $1 to $2 lower while green lugs and nondescript lost $2 to $6 generally. Most decreases were from $1 to $5. Low to good lemon and orange lugs and primings were the only grades showing increases. These grades, used principally by domestic companies for cigarette manufacture, were steady to $3 higher. The bulk of the baskets brought from $70 to $60. By the end of the week the practical top price had moved up to $66. All grades averaged above their respective loan value with the exception of best cutters and lugs and a few lower green lugs and primings.

Gross sales for the week totaled $5,497,851 pounds and averaged $44.05 per hundred. This average was $6.75 below that of the first sales week in 1948. Individual market averages ranged from low of $38.80 to $48.47. The general quality of offerings was lower than early sales last year as tobacco did not grade out as well as expected. There were more primings, lower leaf grades, and nondescript on the markets with the shift from lugs. Leaf, lugs, and primings were the principal offerings. Low to good qualities predominated. Marketings were in good condition. Deliveries to the Flue-cured Stabilization Corporation were around 10% of gross sales.

Labor Day - And Social Security

Monday, September 5, is Labor Day - a legal holiday in honor of, or in the interest of the working man. It is entirely proper that this one day should be set aside as a courtesy to our millions of workers, for they are the very backbone of our great Nation. The initiative, dependability and resourcefulness of the American worker have characterized him as a symbol of efficiency. In peace and in war, the world looks amazedly upon the American workman as a superman of accomplishment.

Still, there comes that time when even the best of workers must reluctantly lay aside their gloves. Our most able men have experienced this inevitableness. It isn't always easy to accept. And what after they have stopped working?

Today, thanks to the passage of the Social Security Act in 1935, American workers in commerce and industry have a provident advantage over their forefathers. At age 65 or over, whether retirement is desired or forced, they are not faced with a total loss of income so long as they are insured workers under the Federal Insurance program. At retirement, it provides the basis for maintaining the aged worker's home and for keeping his family intact.

Although the story possesses the scope of such classic Westerns as "The Covered Wagon", and "Cimarron," never for a moment does the producer let his audiences forget that he has a dramatic story to tell, a story that concerns the tough-thinking, hard-headed pioneer, Thomas Dunson, whose methods of driving his men run counter to the ideas of Matthew Garth.

There is a certain lady here in Kenansville that certainly tries to follow her nose (which she seemingly keeps in the clouds). It's a wonder she doesn't stub her lovely little toes and go sprawling sometime. Still following her nose, she sees no one. THINK WELL. Are you that little lady? We call it HIGH HAT - PURE S N O B.

"Duplin Story" Theme Displayed In Store Windows In Warsaw

If you have not seen the window displays in the Warsaw Furniture Co. and D. E. Best Stores it is well worth a trip to see them. As time for "The Duplin Story" draws near everyone is becoming "antique" conscious. It is surprising just how many old relics of bygone days can be found in our possession.

In The Best store you will see handwoven spreads, a spinning wheel, an old estechism, map, albums, child's chair and doll, age unknown, second day dress jacket with most unusual pear buttons, coffee grinder, muzzle loader shot gun or musket and a homemade square. These windows are most interesting and will catch your eye. Each piece is labeled explaining the approximate age and owner of each article.

As A Goldsboro "Penster" Sees Goes On With "The Duplin Story"

By LINCOLN KAN
If Sam Byrd yawns in your face, don't rmark him. The poor guy has really been working hard, hardly working. I guess by now everyone knows that Sam is the author, producer, director, actor, exhorter of The Duplin Story which is to be unveiled September 22. It will play thru the 24th.

in the wrong place. Of course you've heard about the lady who said "Kissing a man without a mustache is like eating hard boiled eggs with salt." Well... she'll take that back when she goes to Duplin county. About everyone there has a bush thick enough for the birds to hide in. It sure is going to be a poor hunting season this year.

Anyway there's so much to tell about it that I'm just going to give you the highlights. F'rinstance... Beulaville has gotten pageant and history minded, the folks are encouraging James Miller to put on a historical relic display. Stop by his store if you're driving through. You'll see such things as a hand operated sewing machine and an old melodian. Frankly I don't know what a melodian is so I'm going to have to drive there myself.

And Bob Grady, the editor of the Duplin Times seems like about five people instead of one. He's everywhere. He zips between his plant, the courthouse and Sam's house like a jet plane. When he does take a minute out he doesn't slump, he just folds. "Guess it really takes a lot to put on a pageant commemorating your county's 200th anniversary Bob," I said to him. He didn't answer, just nodded. Well to end this, I just want to say that the back drops have all been finished. And Corwin Rife, the technical director of the pageant has gone back to Charleston for a few days rest and incidentally to do some advising on fall plays at the Dock Street Theatre.

Alamance and Burke Counties led the State in pedestrian fatalities with two each. The following counties had one each: Brunswick, Bertie, Caswell, Columbus, Craven, Duplin, Edgecombe, Martin, McDowell, Robeson, Sampson, Surry and Wayne. Seven were children. Collision of vehicles took the lives of 24 persons, bringing the total in this type of accident to 151.

Of 3,171 drivers involved in July, 1,667 were city residents and 1,320 lived in rural areas. A total of 2,300 drivers involved in accidents were residing within 25 miles of the accident location. Fifty-one counties reported no fatalities for July.
