

CAMP DON-LEE AT CAMP DON-LEE
Durham, N. C. Dec. 12. — Completion of construction at Camp Don-Lee for the young people of Eastern North Carolina is the Christmas project of the Methodists of the North Carolina Conference. Over 750 churches in the Conference will receive a Christmas offering for the purpose of building the dining room and kitchen unit and installing the utilities at the Camp. According to Rev. J. G. Phillips, of Durham, Secretary of Camp Don-Lee, Incorporated, a good response to this Christmas project will enable the camp Trustees to begin camping activities next June. Two hundred campers, including staff members, will attend the camp sessions each week during the entire summer. Fully equipped cabins and bath houses have already been completed. The youth camp is located in Pamlico County on the Neuse River, near Arapahoe, N. C.

"Quack" Remedies Fail To Make Farm Hens Lay

"Quack remedies" to make hens lay -- such as feeding red pepper and strong herbs -- are rapidly becoming a thing of the past. Instead, housewives are resorting to more scientific methods to increase the egg production of their flocks.
Many farm women attend neighborhood meetings and show great interest in improving their poultry management.

State College Hints To Home Makers

To take chocolate or cocoa stains from white cottons or linens, dip fabric up and down in hot water. Wash in hot suds. Bleach any remaining stain with household bleach. Rinse. To remove from washable colored or fine fabrics, wash in lukewarm suds. Use dry cleaning fluid to remove any grease spots caused by cream. From non-washable fabrics, sponge with dry cleaning fluid, or with dilute alcohol.
Coffee or tea stains may be removed from white cottons or linens by using boiling water. If stain is not removed, bleach with household bleach. Rinse well. Do not use soap first; it may set the stain.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Q. Is there a coffee shortage? How serious is it?
A. The answer is that there is still "an awful lot of coffee in Brazil." Even though world supplies are a little bit short this year. This year's supply should be sufficient to satisfy most consumers. At any rate, hoarding isn't advisable, for coffee gets stale very quickly.

SPORTS AFIELD

Our wild sheep herds are not in very healthy shape from the standpoint of numbers. After years of protection, their numbers still decrease. Game management men are puzzled. It is a grand animal, living among grand surroundings, and we hope someone finds the solution soon.
The Rocky Mountain bighorn ranges through the Rockies, from British Columbia and Alberta, southward through Montana, Wyoming and into the Colorado Rockies and New Mexico. Subspecies of the bighorn-type sheep extend into Mexico; these include several kinds of so-called desert sheep.
The true Rocky Mountain bighorn is a sturdily built animal, sure-footed, fleet - even in places where a man must pick his way with care - keen of sight, hearing and smell. He is wary, but not quite enough, or his numbers would not be dwindling.
They will eat about any kind of vegetation. In summer they feed on short grass and mosses of the high slopes; in winter they retire to the valleys and meadows. Here mountain lions, wolves and coyotes prey on them, and in summer when the lambs are on the high peaks, eagles, and said to take their toll of the young lambs. This last is disputed by some naturalists, but W. J. Wilwerding, wildlife artist and hunter, writes this:

"All I can say is when I have found flocks of bighorn sheep in May to late June. Rarely will you find a ram with the ewes and lambs. Usually they band together and roam by themselves, waning moaning to do with nursery troubles.
The wild sheep's life is said to be about 12 years. If a ram succeeds in keeping his head that long, his horns will grow into a double spiral, which is rarely seen these days. The growth rings on the horns are quite distinct, and accurately show his age."

The lambs, often twins, are born on peaks, usually from the middle of May to late June. Rarely will you find a ram with the ewes and lambs. Usually they band together and roam by themselves, waning moaning to do with nursery troubles.

The wild sheep's life is said to be about 12 years. If a ram succeeds in keeping his head that long, his horns will grow into a double spiral, which is rarely seen these days. The growth rings on the horns are quite distinct, and accurately show his age."

What a Christmas Gift!
'50 FORD

ITS 100 H.P. V-8 ENGINE PURRS QUALITY
It's an engine that's as powerful as a herd of reindeer — and as silent as the night before Christmas! Yes, Ford offers you the only 100 h.p. engine—the only V-8 engine—in the low-price field. Yet the '50 Ford, with this engine, sells for less than most Sixes.

NEW "HUSHED" RIDE, TOO!
Drive a '50 Ford and you'll notice quiet that whispers quality. The powerful V-8 engine whispers while it works. And doors, roof, and body panels are "sound conditioned" against road noise. Even the 13-way "Liquor" Body adds to the quiet. But drive it yourself and see why no other car delivers so much for your money.

IT'S THE ONE FINE CAR IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD
With Ford's quality-car power, you get quality—too! For Ford's "Hydra-Coll" and "Para-Flax" Springs make the bumps feel like they aren't there—and Ford's "Mid Ship" Ride is as smooth as silk. From its soft foam rubber front seat to its beautiful baked-on-finish, Ford leads its field in quality.
