Complimented

Mrs. Charles Sheffield was honored on Friday evening at 8 o'clock when she entertained at eight tables of bridge honoring Miss Ann Marchburn of Washington whose marriage to Patrick M. Herring of New Bern and Warsaw was performed on January 28 in Washington. Mrs. Sheffield is sister of the bridegroom.

The Sheffield home on Pollock St. was artistically decorated accenting the wedding bell theme. Tables were laid for serving upon arrival, each table bearing a centerpiece of burning tapers in silver candelabra from which silver wedding bells were suspended. Green fern ornamented the base. By each place setting lay an individual corsage of pink camellias. Tallies were bell-shaped tied with green and white ribbon and decorated with bridal stickers. The scorepads were made from the bride's wedding invitations.

A silver receptacle of Japanese holly graced the radio in the living room. An epergne holding white spires and fern centered the dining table. Pompano chrysanthemums in a silver bowl, flanked by burning tapers in a three-tiered candelabra ornamented the buffet.

Mrs. J. T. Gresham received a pair of Mexican woven palm leaf cracker carriers. Second high, a pair of glazed pottery flower baskets went to Mrs. Joyce Burton. Mrs. J. T. Gresham also won travel's, a pop-out ice cube tray.

The honoree received a combination guest-cook book made up of favorite recipes supplied by each guest present. The hostess presented her with an electric pop-up toaster.

Mrs. W. J. Middleton, Jr. recent bride, received a set of two "Safety" cooking aprons.

During the game the hostess served cold drinks in silver holders, tied with green ribbon and nuts. After scores were tallied white hostess slices bearing in green the inscription, "Ann and Pete", individual bridal cakes, punch and bridal mints were served.

A Few Words Of Thanks

"Dear Hearts and Gentle People," every time I hear that song I think of all our friends in Duplin and I am sure that the man that wrote it must live in Tenn. in a county like ours. I have always heard "a friend in need is a friend indeed," and you have certainly stood by me in my five years of sickness, death and bad luck.

I thank you for making Mama's Christmas such a nice one, for all the lovely cards and beautiful flowers, nice baskets, boxes and bags of fruit, good cakes, candy and vegetables, chickens, ham, and pretty presents you sent and brought over. All these things made me during her sickness and death, all the lovely things to eat and beautiful flowers.

If you need me for anything please call on me and I will do the best I can as you will have me on your hands until my time comes to cross over the river.

Blanche S. Wilson.
