JUDGE STEVENS FOR U. S. SENATE

Continued from front. ted States should take a more definite swing towards the middle ground, that is become more conservative, (not ultra conservative, going back to the days of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover) and tighten the ropes somewhat in the swing towards socialism, then we believe that maybe a more conservative-minded man will better represent us in the United States Senate.

If we take the more conservative view the Duplin Times believes that Duplin County has the right man for the job. Judge Henry Stevens is a son, a student, scholar, and a statesman of the Old South. He is vitally a part of the modern go-forward age but he believes in going forward a little slowly. He fought in World War I with distinction. He was honored by his buddies in giving him the highest office in their power, that of National Commander of the American Legion. When the Democratic Party was given the opportunity to save this country from the Wall Street bulls of the 20s and to bring it from the depths of despair in the Thirties Henry Stevens was called on and was one of the foremost warriors in the battles.

When the battle cry was over and the drums and bugles died down Henry returned home for a needed rest, to the practice of law. He hardly got settled before the people, realizing his honesty, ability and integrity, decided he was the man to head the courts of justice in our home district. They drafted him back into service and since that time he has done himself well, reflecting credit and dignity on the courts of justice and proving that confidence placed in him by his people.

Judge Stevens has been receiving requests, almost demands, from all parts of the state to oppose Senator Frank Graham. He is not the type of man who will jump into a political race just to defeat an opponent. If he can be shown that the people of North Carolina really want him to represent them in the United States Senate he is available. We believe Duplin County will be ready to back him up. Judge Stevens has been hearing from people outside Duplin County, now he wants to know how the people of his home county feel about the situation.

of Beulaville and J. L. Williams and Bob Grady of Kenansville.

Other entertainment were the Senior singing, a duet by two small Bryant girls, ages about 7 and 10. They sang "Jesus Went on My Bond" and if they had been on the radio you would have thought they were a part of the Grand Old Opry. At intermission and while the judges were out different contestants entertained the crowd with special numbers.

Betas Go To Wallace

On Feb. 8, the Beulaville Beta Club attended a Tri-County Convention in Wallace. The three counties represented were Duplin, Pender, and Sampson.

The Convention began at 2 p.m. with everyone registering. During the afternoon there was a talent show in which almost all the schools participated. A few things were serious, some of them were humorous. Mr. Henry Bedinger, State Secretary, and Miss Ruth Lennon were present and made short talks. At 6 o'clock a barbecue banquet was served in the school cafeteria. Rev. A. D. Wood made a very impressive after dinner speech which all enjoyed. The convention was closed with a dance in the Community building.
