Pecan Trees Planted In Yard Become An Asset To The Family Budget

BY: MRS. JOHN GOODSON
Mt. Olive Homemakers Club
When my husband and I had been married only a few years, we fell heirs to his old home and some acres of land surrounding it. While the house was of no particular style and perhaps without a plan, we felt a great sense of pride in the place, because it was my husband's old home and was built by his father. In the yard his parents had planted four pecan trees for shade and to supply the family with nuts. These trees had now reached maturity and were to prove to be a real asset to our family budget.

One day as my husband was planning how he could best use the land to make a living for us, he said to me, "Since the care of the yard will be in your hands, you can have anything that is made on the pecans." It was then that I decided to turn back into the place any profits I made from the trees until we could get the needed repairing done.

The first year the money was used to put cement steps and a walk to the front and underpin part of the house. We also bought enough screen wire and other materials to screen all the windows and doors. With my husband doing the work, we were able to do this at a small cost.

The following year the money was used to replace the old fence around the yard with a new one. Enough money was left to buy paint for the fence and the outside of the house. My husband and I with the help of a high school boy put the paint on.

The next year the money was used to buy shrubbery and plant grass seed in the yard. Now that the outside of the house was in good repair and the grounds taken care of, we started using the money for the inside and various other things we needed. Through the years these trees have made it possible for us to wallpaper and paint four of our rooms, cover the everyday living room floor with inlaid linoleum, buy plastic bathroom window and shower curtains, replace bed linens, curtains and towels, and I also manage to keep some of the money for my Christmas shopping. This year, after I had made my contribution to the Church, I had $116.00 left. With this money I bought material to slip cover a living room chair and hired a competent person to do the work. I also bought enough yellow plastic material to cover the seats of our dining room chairs and my husband and I did the work. There was enough money left to buy a solid maple drop-leaf table for our living room. So through the years these trees have not only furnished us a wonderful shade and plenty of nuts to eat, but have also been a real asset to the family budget.
