'A LOOKIN' UP

By: A. M. DAVIS

I have been trying to get some of our local citizens to write this column but most of them shy away from it when approached on the subject. I want all the people in this community to feel this is their column and if they know of something that would be interesting to the people of the community to feel free to express themselves at any time. I know that there are many things you know about that should be recognized but with the other duties I have it is rather hard for me to think about them and plan something of interest each week.

The following free verse was contributed by one of our readers this week and I think it is good. It expresses well what I have observed since becoming a citizen of your community.

 "Where is this place which I now eulogize?
 Who are its people and what is its size?
 Is it a city or a very small town?
 How did it manage to earn its renown?
 About some of the questions, I'll let you surmise
 But the name of the town, doubtless, will be no surprise -
 It's Faison.

Traditions are honored, ancestors respected,
 Their names and their exploits are known.
 Their houses are lived in, their graves are wept over,
 Their treasures and pictures are shown.
 It radiates culture, beauty and charms
 From the very center of it out to its farms.
 Its streets are so "liveable", its mansions so spacious
 And all its inhabitants are kind and so gracious -
 Its trees and its gardens speak loud of the past
 It seemed like an Eden in which my lot was cast.
 Here at last, I thought, I've found my retreat.
 I'll select a good book and just take a seat.
 Now I have found it, I'll just sit me down
 To ponder and enjoy to the full this sweet town.
 Long have I sought, now ended 's the quest
 Where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest.

"Ha, Ha, do my ears deceive me or do I hear you laugh,
 Lady, I hate to tell you, but that is only half.
 The wicked cease to trouble, but the righteous are not so,
 From cock's crow till dark at night they're always on the go.
 'Tis themselves they punish, their consciences are their guides,
 Their enthusiasm unbounded, their sympathies are wide.

Their hearts are founts of pity, their souls are full of zeal,
 Their strength and their minds are offered up for the common weal.
 Yes, 'tis themselves they chastize, with projects so intent,
 But till they fall by the wayside every thought is bent.
 True their nerves are tense and purses a little flat,
 But who would want to worry over a little thing like that.
 It won't be long now till the truck season is finished;
 Then is the time we get our wealth replenished.

"Church work, club work, music, poetry and art,
 And each one, wise or stupid, is asked to take a part.
 So here they are, each one faithful at his post.
 'Tis hard to say at random, which one can do the most.
 Two Bessies, Lila, Heyward, Lena, Nell and Nyda,
 Helen, Margaret, Annie, Mamie stands beside her,
 Names that I won't mention, Cora,

A SHORT STORY The Only Kind Of 'Glamour' That Matters

By Mrs. H. Joyner

The Woman's Club had met for the purpose of electing a President, since the one who had recently held the office had moved to a distant city. Two names were nominated for the new office. One was a Mrs. Priscilla Van Buren, a very stylishly dressed young matron who seemed to me, who was a stranger at the meeting, to be the last word in "Glamour". The other was a Mrs. Mattie Burke, who, although she seemed a nice enough person, was a far cry from possessing any of Priscilla's glamour. After the votes were counted, I seemed to be the only surprised person to learn that of the 56 women who voted, Mattie received 50 of the votes. Being a stranger and truly interested in learning why Mattie had been overwhelmingly elected over the beauty and charm of her opponent, I asked for an explanation.

 "Well, of course we realize Priscilla's charm and it does come in mighty handy when our club has Mary, Kate,
 Keeping up the struggle from each dawn till late.
 Their minds reach out for culture, none will try to shirk.
 But up and out and onward to do this uplift work.

"Marching down with determined steps comes Sallie,
 She's early on her way to the Community House rally.
 Of all the efforts, this worthy cause we must foster.
 For if we win, the whole crowd gets in on the roster.
 On the other side of the road comes Fanny
 Seeking for lunchers in every nook and cranny.
 She is the one who serves the barbecue dinners,
 Cheerful eaten alike by the saints and sinners.
 It's all for the church, so why do we cavil,
 We'll eat them and like them as long as we are able.

"If the President's wife ever has a dull day,
 'Tis here she can find plenty of work and of play.
 They can help write "My Life" or maybe their death,
 For soon, seems to me, they'll run out of breath.
 Until that sad day which I hope is not due,
 I wish with the poet, but I doubt it comes true.
 'May the Peace of Allah abide with you.'"

WS of CS MEETS

Mrs. Allen Jordan was hostess to the WS of CS of King Church Wednesday night, May 24. Meeting opened with song and devotional was led by Mrs. J. O. Sutton and led in prayer. Minutes were read and roll called by Mrs. Willie Darden. Due to illness Mrs. L. B. Kornegay could not serve as president and Mrs. Lewis Jordan was elected in her stead. The program under the leadership of Mrs. Allen Jordan was given with several members assisting. Rev. Dennis Kinlaw conducted the installation service and meeting was closed with prayer by him.

During the social hour Mrs. Jordan, assisted by Mrs. Nathan Sutton served ice cream topped with strawberries and cookies.

EASON TO SPEAK TO BAPTISTS

Instead of the regular service by pastor J. M. Gibbs on Sunday morning, June 4, at the Faison Baptist Church, the service hour will be filled by Mr. Horace Eason of Shelby, N. C. who will speak in the interest of Wake Forest College. He will bring a message, the subject of which should be of vital interest to Baptist, particularly, though everyone is invited to hear him.

BASEBALL

Faison semi-pro baseball team lost two games to Clay Hole over the past week end. The score of Saturday's game at Clay Hole was 5 to 7 and Sunday's game at Faison was 9 to 2.

Suttontown was the loser of two games to Rones Chapel and Calypso lost two to Mt. Olive.

All teams will be in action again this week end as follows: Saturday, Suttontown at Clay Hole; Faison at Mt. Olive; Rones Chapel at Calypso. Sunday, Clay Hole at Suttontown; Mt. Olive at Faison; Calypso at Rones Chapel.

LEES VISIT IN FLA.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lee left last Tuesday for Tampa, Fla., for a visit with their son, Frank Jr. It is understood that they will be away for about a month. While away, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Sills of Pink Hill, are occupying their home. Mrs. Sills is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee. Mr. Sills is connected with the Faison Produce Trucking to entertain out of town executives, but dear, this is not often. And you never can tell when Priscilla is liable to become bored and rush off to New York right in the middle of a drive for funds. She's lovely to look at, sure, but she's unpredictable. And too, Priscilla has always been wealthy, and naturally she doesn't quite understand when we try to raise money to buy lunches for the underprivileged children in our school. Now, you take Mattie, well, she's very different. Of course she's not much to look at outside of being clean and neat, but she's the kind that's dependable. Yes mam, you can always depend on Mattie doing what she promises. She's different from most folks in the way she feels that you should practice your religion every day. She is really startling.

When the town's drunk was put in jail, it was Mattie who went and got his poor motherless boy and took him into her home. When that little teen-age girl got into that scrape last summer, it was Mattie who went to her rescue. Course Mattie didn't approve of what the girl had done but in her wise way she realized that kicking anyone farther into the ditch was the impossible way to reform one. To be sure, Mattie practices her religion every single day.

When the friendless old woman who lived in the shack back of town became critically ill, it was Mattie who went to see her every day with warm food and medicine. It was plain, kind Mattie who would sit up with her at night when the pain was so great that she could not sleep. No one seemed to care that the poor old woman was all alone and dying. No one but Mattie.

So you see dear what our town thinks of Mattie. Even though she's decidedly plain, she's the kindest person we've ever known. She's dependable; yes, you can depend on Mattie. In other words, our little town thinks that Mattie has the only kind of Glamour that's worth a D---."

New Coiffure for Round-Shape Face

The girl with the round face should avoid wide collars and definitely circular curls which accentuate roundness. Here's a hair-do designed for her. It's a simple, brief cut with smart, smooth crown. Hair is combed flat across the head; the ends are fluted up to give height. In back, the hair is lightly waved and ends in an upturning, girlish fringe. This style is from the Master Book of 50 New Hairdos, featured in the March issue of Good Housekeeping.

ABOUT ATHLETE'S FOOT Can't Be Wrong

Here's what Stout of Parkersburg, W. Va., says, "The sale of T-4-L has been very pleasing. One customer said it is the first thing in six years that gave relief."

Imagine Driving Without It

Driving a car without a license is like operating a business without a license—strictly illegal.

To get a license to drive you must show that you know the safety rules of the road... and must have a satisfactory driving record free from arrests for serious traffic violations.

And, by the same token, to obtain a license in the beer industry a retailer must meet a number of strict qualifications. He must be financially responsible. He must not only have a "clean" record for obeying the law but must keep his record clean. If he does not maintain a clean, orderly establishment, or if he allows unruliness or sells to minors, he is violating the law. And his license is revoked accordingly.

Working with other police officers, the Malt Beverage Division of the North Carolina ABC Board carefully checks all retail beer outlets for any violation of the law. The beer industry is in hearty accord with this enforcement program... which helps the industry keep its best foot forward at all times in your community.
