

Hilda Grey Brinson, Wiley Booth Are United In Afternoon Rites

The Baptist Church was the scene of the wedding on Saturday afternoon, uniting Miss Hilda Gray Brinson and Wiley Truett Booth.

The Rev. John M. Cline, officiated. A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Walter Stroud of Kenansville and Miss Dora Cameron of Wilmington, soloists, and Mrs. H. E. Latham, pianist.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother who met her at the altar, wore a gown of Duchess satin, featuring a portrait neckline with off-the-shoulder bertha of Chantilly lace, extending into an aisle-wide train.

Mrs. Morris Brinson, dame of honor, wore a gown of yellow organdy over taffeta, fashioned like that of the bride. Completing her costume were yellow organdy gauntlets and matching hat.

fied. The most trouble now being experienced is "cork," a soft kernel inside the potato.

The warning was given to stay away from seed from other states, notably from Georgia. The recommendations were: Start with good seed, keep a high ridge and keep the rows clean.

At the tomato area, the corn worm was also pointed out as a prey on the fruit. The name changed to the fruit worm. Control is through the use of cryolite and later when harvesting, rotenone.

Other insects harmful to the tomatoes are the flea beetle, and the tomato horn worm. Usual methods of control were advised. Beside the tomato patch, 10 different varieties of Irish potatoes were being experimented on. Leaf hopper damage was shown.

The farm was mostly concerned with the late blight. Six varieties were shown to be highly resistant.

maids were Misses Annie Laurie Rivenbark, Elna Gay Herring, Anne Blanton and Nadine Brinson. They wore contrasting colors of organdy over taffeta, with matching hats and gauntlets, and carried bouquets of mixed summer flowers.

Little Miss Alice Lee Brown, flower girl, was wearing pink organdy over taffeta, with matching gauntlets and bonnet, and carrying a basket of rose petals. James Edward Brinson and little Miss Emma Sue Hawes, wearing blue organdy over taffeta with bandeau of flowers in her hair, were ring bearers, carrying the rings on white satin pillows.

The bridegroom has as his best man, Gene Hall. Ushers were Bland Booth, Adolph Bostic, Morris Brinson and Billy Stallings. Honorary bridesmaids were Misses Jean Tyndall, Frances Lancaster, Cornelia Quinn, Margaret Jones, Lucy Emma Brown, Carolyn Williams, Catherine Britt, and Mrs. Lois Judge.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held at the Woman's Club. The bride attended Meredith College and Raleigh School of Commerce.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Rose Hill High School attended Kings Business College. He is now with the Federal-State Inspection Service.

market, it being the Sebago potato. Other varieties were: resistant, Essex, B-61-3; Cobbler, Kennebec, and Chenango.

Other experiments are pepper, squash, cucumber and okra.

CONDITIONS OF ADMISSION TO THE V. A. HOSPITAL

It is well to remember that when calling a VA Hospital regarding admittance of a veteran that there is a difference in being entitled to hospitalization and being merely eligible for hospitalization. The difference is this: A veteran of a war who has a service-connected disability and is in need of hospitalization for that service-connected disability, is entitled to hospitalization. A veteran of a war who has a service-connected disability and is in need of hospitalization for conditions other than this service-connected disability, is merely eligible for hospitalization. A veteran of a war who is seeking hospitalization and has no service-connected conditions, is merely eligible for hospitalization, not necessarily entitled. His eligibility is to be determined by the availability of hospital beds and medical personnel.

Duplin Roads Being Completed

Highway maintenance supervisor E. C. Tyndall walked into the Times office Wednesday afternoon with a broad grin on his face. "You can tell'em we are finishing up roads in Duplin this week," he said. On Wednesday paving was completed and the following roads opened to traffic:

Lost Colony Is Top Attraction Of Dare's Coast

By: AYCOCK BROWN Manteo, N. C. — Since its premiere in 1937, The Lost Colony, longest running outdoor production in America, has been the top attraction of the Dare Coast which has long been famous as one of America's most unusual vacation lands.

The Lost Colony is presented in an amphitheatre overlooking Roanoke Sound at the very spot where the ill-fated colonists sent out from England in 1587 by Sir Walter Raleigh attempted settlement. The group of 150 men and women disappeared before relief ships returned to the island three years later creating one of the most baffling history mysteries of all time.

Site of the theatre is within the palisades of Fort Raleigh, a national historic area maintained by the National Park Service.

Nearby on Kill Devil Hill in the Nags Head area is the Wright Memorial, a national monument erected in memory of Orville and Wilbur Wright who flew the first airplane there in 1903. Roanoke Island is the site of the first major Civil War battle in North Carolina. There are two towns on the island, Manteo and Wanchese, named for two Indian chieftains whom the colonists carried back to England following their first landing in 1584.

Vacationists find an unusual vacation area at Nags Head, Kill Devil Hill and Kitty Hawk. Uncrowded beaches extend for more than 20 miles. Dozens of hotels and motor courts at beach communities, several indoor and outdoor recreation centers, night clubs, restaurants, ocean fishing piers and bingo centers. Nags Head is the only locality in North Carolina where Bingo has been legalized.

Fresh and salt water fishing attracts anglers from all parts of the nation. All roads leading to the land of the Lost Colony are paved including US 264 via Washington, N. C. to Manns Harbor and by the route from Williamston US64, will be open to traffic via Manns Harbor. The latter routes are via ferry over Croatan Sound. The ferries are operated by North Carolina and run every hour beginning July 1, every two hours until then.

those who want to go by bus. Any one may go by car who likes to. The group should be at the Soil Conservation Experiment farm by 9 A. M.

Please tell your neighbors about this tour as it offers an opportunity for our people to gain the latest information on tobacco production.

We will need to know exactly how many want to travel by bus not later than Monday, July 3.

Long Range Committee Meets In Kenansville

The Beef Cattle and Swine Committee and the Dairy and Poultry Committee of the Long Range Duplin County Program met in the Agricultural Building in Kenansville last Thursday night.

Mr. L. F. Weeks, county agent, discussed the progress of the program thus far. Many farmers are beginning to take an interest in the program and are seeking additional livestock to use on their present pastures.

Mr. Paul Fletcher of the State Dept. of Agriculture, met with the group and gave valuable suggestions regarding marketing and securing of animals.

"It now appears that the demand for stocker and feeder cattle will be strong," said Mr. Fletcher, "if weather conditions prove to be suitable for producing normal or better feed supplies."

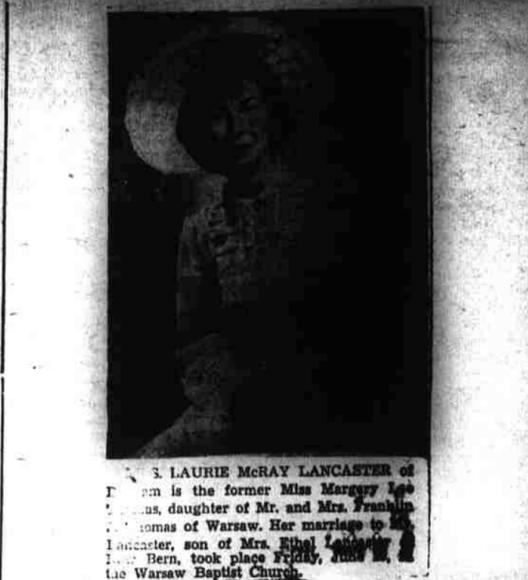

"The Division of Markets of the State Dept. of Agriculture plans to help North Carolina farmers again this summer and fall in locating beef cattle. If a farmer of this county is interested in obtaining beef cattle for feeding purposes he should get in touch with his county agent as soon as possible and place his order for the number he wants. He should do this as early as possible in order to give the department time to secure the animals for him."

TOBACCO FARMERS WILL TOUR FARM NEXT THURSDAY

By: L. F. WEEKS A tour has been arranged for Duplin County farmers to visit McCullers Tobacco Experiment Station, about 14 miles southeast of Raleigh, near Benson - Garner Highway. This tour is planned for Thursday, July 6.
