"So many parents wonder if their children are progressing according to the normal rate of speech development that the table is published to give them an average standard. They should remember, however, according to authors. that girls are usually ahead of boys at each of these age levels and that development comes in spurts between periods when it seems that there is little learning being accomplished. Furthermore, there are wide differences in individual growth", spokesman for the League said. He pointed out that in the normal child, speech should be expected by the age of three years and should not be considered delayed until that age.

The nationally known speech correction workers and speech pathologists who collaborated in writing the book tell how to recognize speech disorders in children, how parents and teachers can help children overcome their speech handicaps, and how those handicaps can be prevented from having a crippling effect on the child's personality development. There are nine contributors to the book, each of whom devotes a chapter to a special phase of speech development or correction, such as cerebal palsy, cleft palate and lip, voice disorders, hesitant speech, and children who speak foreign By MRS SARA JOINER

All of us can give appreciation, kindness, interest, understanding and a score of other little portions of ourselves. And above everything, we can be kind. For we never know how much a kind and encouraging word will mean to someone who is NORTH CAROLINA, depressed and discouraged.

Suppose, for instance, you pass a neighborhood store in which you see a very attractive window display. You say to yourself, "Some one put real thought into trimming that window and he or she ought to know that at least one person passing by appreciated it as beauty." So why not drop in and com-Problems of Children", pliment the manager on the lovely window display. > How many of us ever take the time to telephone a lonely or elderly person? Through error I once called an elderly lady's number and on recognizing her happy voice, I hadn't the heart to tell her that I had called her through error. She seemed so appreciative to know that I had taken the time to call and ask how she was faring that it put my heart to shame that I had been so negligent. On seeing 7-28-4t, WEC her husband later, he told me how it had perked up her feelings to have me call and chat awhile. For, as he expressed it, "Since we've gotten so old and feeble, our telephone hardly ever rings any more.'

An elderly and beloved colored woman that everyone seemed to love, on being asked what her se cret was that made everyone love her, humbly replied:

"Why Honey, it's simple as my religion. Long, long ago, I decided that if I couldn't say anything kind and good about any one or to any one, that I would just keep my big black mouth Shet." What a world of wisdom in Old Aunt Dinah's simple religion. What a heavenly place we would have here if we only took the time to obey the Bible verse to "Be Ye Kind" and to "Judge not that we be not Judged." And so my friends, let's take time to be kind and especially to the ones who sorely need kindness. Who knows but that one of these

Negro Farm Agent News

Duplin County farmers and homemakers were among some 2000 people attending the 28th annual Negro Farmers and Homemakers Conference at A & T College or Tuesday through Friday June 27-30. Classes were concerned with agro nomy, animal husbanndry, horticulture, rural housing, agriculture, engineering, clothing, foods and nutrition, and home management. Dr. Arthur Raper, social scientist of the Agriculture Department, pointed out the trend of farm labor being disposed by farm machinery, which has driven at least a million persons, most of them colored, of the farm, thousands of them have gone to northern cities crowding into slum areas. What is the nation doing about these displaced persons? Not much, the leaders at the conference agreed. Dr. Raper said the problem has become more difficult because the south has a feudal type of economy under which many of its citizens, especially its colored citizens never developed a tradition of participation in the community or a feeling of responsibility to it. The program was climaxed by the appearance of the Southernaires, world famed Quartet of New York. Attending the conference for the four days were: Mrs. Addle Hall, of Smith Chapel; Mrs. Ella J. Williams, Beulaville; Mrs. Margaret Hill, Chinquapin; Miss Dorothy Robinson, Robinsontown; Mis-Unis Herring, Byrds Chapel. Mrs. Mable B. Peterson, Home Agent, accompanied the four-day delegation, and R. E. Wilkins, Farm Agent, accompanied the one-day

George Ross Urges Resturant Operators To Improve Service

Officers of the N. C. Restaurant Association met this week in Morehead City and heard George Ross, director of the department of conservation and development, stress the importance of serving good food and having top service in order to impress the great and growing tourist industry of the State. He addressed the restaurant officials while they cruised aboard the State Fisheries Flagship, the

About 30 officials and their vives attended the meeting. On Wednesday night the officials were guests of Tony Seamon and Ted Garner at their Sanitary Fish Market and Restaurant. In his talk to the group there Director Ross pointed out that the Seamon-Garner operation as typical of the type of restaurant which attracts and pleases tourists and vacationists. Seamon, a vice president of the organization and Frank Byrne of Wilmington were in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

ED. NOTE: We agree with Mr. Ross and would recommend to Restaurant Operators pay a visit to Roscoe Jones' Kenansville Cafe for a real demonstration of what he is talking about.

If Everyone . .

If everyone who drives a car could lie a month in bed, With broken bones and stitched-up wounds or fractured head, And there endure the agonies that many people do. They'd never need preach safety any more to me or you.

If everyone could stand beside the bed of some close friend, And hear the doctor say No hope, before that fatal end,

And see him there unconscious, never knowing what took place, The laws and rules of traffic I'm sure we'd soon embrace.

If everyone could meet the wife and children left behind, And step into the darkened home where once the sunlight shined. And look upon the "Vacant Chair" w' re Daddy used to sit, I'm sure each reckless driver would be forced to think a bit. If everyone who takes the wheel would say a prayer,

And keep in mind those in the car depending on his care, And make a vow, and pledge himself to never take a chance, The great crusade for safety then would suddenly advance. - The Flying Wheel

Prevention is the best cure Mr Weeks said, but everyone should know what to do in case of heat Illness. Here is his suggestions:

Move patient to cool, shady place strip to underclothes, lay on back with head and shoulders raised. Apply ice or cold wet cloths to head, cool the body gradually with cool bath, hose or wet clothes and rub limbs toward the heart. If patient is conscious, give cool drinks, not ice cold. Do not give stimulants.

Get patient to a doctor as soon as possible.

In cases of heat exhaustion, the patient's skin is cold and clammy. A simple rule to prevent confusion as to treatment is: If patient is cold, make him warm; if he's hot, make him cool.
