TAR HEELS DON'T DRINK ENOUGH MILK

One of the many reasons why North Carolina needs more improved pasture and more livestock on its farms is that consumption of livestock products in the State falls far short of what nutritionists recommend for good health. Nutritionists recommend 301 quarts of milk or its equivalent in dairy products per person annually. The average person in the U. S. consumes 284, but the average in North Carolina is only 228 quarts.

Fluid milk was once a classic example of North Carolina's livestock deficiency. However, during the past two years, local Grade A production has equalled or exceeded the demand during the summer of "flush milk" season.

A SALUTE TO 4-H FARM SAFETY

National Farm Safety Week is being observed throughout rural America, July 23-29. Therefore we feel that now is the time to salute another nation-wide safety activity in progress 365 days a year.

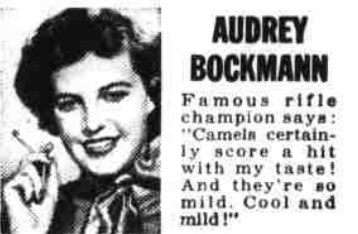

It is the 4-H Farm and Home Safety program carried on by nearly half a million 4-H Club members between the ages of 10 and 21. We are told that these youth -- who conduct safety surveys in their homes and neighboring farmsteads -- have the best organized safety program in the rural field. They not only ferret out hazards but follow through and correct thousands of unsafe conditions relating to farm machinery, livestock, motoring, and scores of other things.

For furthering 4-H farm safety education, we take off our hats to General Motors for its interest in rural youth and its public spirited action in providing $10,000 in awards annually; to the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work for arranging the program; and to the Cooperative Extension Service for directing the activity.
