

Navy Frees Enlisted Personnel

The Navy Department announced recently a 12-months "freeze" of regular Navy and Naval Reserve enlisted personnel effective until July 9, 1951.

The order which applies to both active and inactive regular Navy and Naval Reserve enlisted personnel (with the exception of one-year enlistees who were accepted under the Selective Service program), extends their period of enlistment for 12 months from the expiration date of their current enlistment.

At the same time the Navy Department announced it has partially lifted its temporary ban on accepting applications from civilians for commissions in the Naval Reserve. As a result, the Navy is now accepting applications from doctors, dentists, nurses, medical interns, medical and dental students and electronics specialists for reserve commissions.

The temporary ban did not affect applications from civilians in specialized fields for active duty commissions in the Regular Navy. The Navy will continue to accept applications for Regular Navy com-

Restoration Begins On Ft. Raleigh

Manteo, N. C. — Restoration of Fort Raleigh on Roanoke Island, the first English settlement in America, has been started by the National Park Service. The Fort was built in 1585 by Sir Walter Raleigh's fabulous "Lost Colony", which is the subject of Paul Green's historical drama by that name which attracts thousands of visitors during the summer season.

Poison Plants May Kill Livestock

Poisonous plants may have been responsible for some of the recent cattle losses in North Carolina.

Wild Cherry is known to be poisonous, especially wilted leaves. Animals with certain deficiencies develop a depraved or abnormal appetite. Such animals may chew on objects and eat plants which they normally would refuse.

Of thousands of plants found in the State, only about 50 or 60 are considered poisonous to livestock. About ten of these are responsible for most of the losses. They are: white snakeroot, lambkill kalmia, mountain laurel, black (wild) cherry, common chokecherry, spotted water-hemlock, Carolina jessamine, yellow buckeye, crow poison and pink deathcap.

These plants are listed and described in Experiment Station Bulletin No. 342, Stock Poisoning Plants of North Carolina. Get a copy from your county agent. If there is any questions, on suspicious plants, send plants to the Botany Dept. N. C. State College for correct identification.

Carelessness Leads To Tragedies

More tractor and truck fuel is used during the summer on farms than in any other season. Lacy Weeks County Agent points out, and that petroleum products can be a servant or destroyer. It all depends on how they are used.

Careless use of motor fuels or other inflammable liquids leads to tragedy. The victims die prematurely and horribly. They ignored repeated warnings and waited too late to change their habits.

If you want to avoid disaster here are a few rules that may be of help:

1. An underground tank with pumping equipment similar to service stations provide the safest storage for large supplies of gasoline or kerosene.
2. The next best method is in a well constructed steel tank 40 or more feet from buildings.
3. Never re-fuel a tractor while motor is running or extremely hot.

State College Hints To Home Makers

Ease up on summer ironing. Be stingy with water. Over dampening is a common fault. Use warm water and distribute it evenly.

Fold clothes loosely and with as few wrinkles as possible. Putting sprinkled clothes in a plastic bag helps.

If you have a number of men in your family use metal pants presses. These come in various lengths for different size legs, and put creases in the trouser legs, a touch around the waistband is all that's needed. It will take two or three minutes to "iron" each pair of trousers this way.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

How can I get rid of ants?
A. If you are bothered with ants in the house, your best bet is a 5% DDT household fly spray and apply to cracks, crevices and around doors and window sills where the pests are appearing.

Q. When is it safe to stop treating cotton for boll weevil control?
A. Keep it up until at least until your field has more bolls than squares. You should treat every five days until the majority of the bolls have formed.

4. Never draw or handle flammable liquids in the presence of open flame or other source of ignition.
