HIGHWAY WORKERS

seven under the direction of Eugene Tyndall. The group will meet again in December for a barbecue pig supper. This organization is financed by the local men who meet at regular intervals to discuss problems related to their work and ways and means in which they can improve the highway and road service in Duplin County. It was interesting to note that this meeting was not highlighted by a group of politicians or so-called prominent citizens wanting special favors. The organization's spirit and attitude as manifested Friday night is to steer clear of politics except in matters where their personal welfare is concerned as in these amendments. It was really delightful to attend this meeting last week and the meeting of our school teachers in which politics, from a general standpoint, was not even in the picture and politicians were not present. To the writer it was the first time in 15 years that he has attended a meeting in the vicinity of the highway camp that politicians were not the most conspicuous people around and that meals were not prepared and served by convicts. It was a wholesome atmosphere and smacked of good government workers who put their job and service to the people foremost in their minds. Among public employees such meetings as those last week here in Duplin mean better service to the people and more consideration of spending the public's money. The two groups are to be congratulated. Let's hope these are the signs of the times in Duplin.

ine Bradshaw, Maggie Heath and Katie Rogers. Of these original members two are still living: Susan J. Cox and Nancy M. Swinson. The first regular services began November 18, 1900, and they were held for a short while on the second floor of Mr. Carr's store. Later, on the invitation of the Methodist Church, the services were held at that church on the third Sunday afternoon until a church building was erected.

J. C. Mallard, a member of the Methodist Church, donated a lot on which to build the church. The building was begun in the fall of 1901 and completed in time for the 1903 session of the Eastern Baptist Association which met with the church.

During the pastorate of Rev. J. H. Booth, an effort was made to assure an interest in missions. J. A. Teachey was appointed missionary treasurer.

The original building consisted only of an auditorium. During the pastorate of Rev. J. M. Page, two Sunday school rooms were added, and a baptistry and parsonage were added. In the pastorate of Rev. A. L. Brown, five more rooms were added.

In the fall of 1939, the church voted to start a building fund. During the term of service of Rev. J. L. Jones, more emphasis was placed on efforts to increase this fund, which reached a goal of $80,000 before the pastor resigned in October, 1943.

In February, 1944, J. V. Case of Junction City, Ky., was called as pastor.

On May 17, 1944, a finance committee was appointed to make plans for raising the money for a new building. Specifications were drawn by Coffey and Olson of Le-noir. The church approved these plans February 10, 1947. The work began under the supervision of E. F. Taylor Co. of Goldsboro.

From July 1947 until February 1948, all the church services were held in the public school building. As soon as the new building was enclosed, the basement was made ready for temporary use. The room now used for adult assembly was then used as an auditorium.

The cornerstone, donated by the Palmer Stone Corporation of Albemarle, was laid November 25, 1947.

The auditorium was used for the first time the second Sunday in June 1950.

Dedication of the debt-free new building was held last Sunday. The occasion also served as homecoming day for friends and former members of the church. It also approximated the 50th anniversary of the organization.

Three pastors have gone out from the church membership. They are Rev. A. L. Benton, Rev. Alva Hawes and Rev. Luther James Matthews. Another member of the church, Miss Kate Murray, has spent many years as a missionary in China. L. J. Teachey, Jr., another member of the congregation, was studying for the ministry previous to his enlistment in the armed forces in World War II, in which he lost his life.

Membership of the church at present is 325. While this is not a large membership, there are current indications of spiritual progress. One of these indications is an increase in gifts for missions and benevolences.

Duplin Teachers Favor Amendment

Duplin County teachers assembled in Kenan Memorial Auditorium here last Thursday night and discussed the proposed amendments to the state constitution to be voted on next Tuesday. Supt. O. P. Johnson called the meeting to order and after hearing a number of resolutions by the Wallace Colored High School glee club the group entered into open discussion. Mr. Johnson and Mrs. Emory Sadler explained the importance of voting and working for the two amendments having to do with protecting the teacher pension funds and increasing the pay of members of the legislature. The group voted wholeheartedly in favor of the two amendments.

Mrs. Harold Kornegay was elected president of the Duplin County unit of the N. C. E. A.; Wm. R. Teachey was named vice president and Mrs. Mary E. Browder, secretary.

Hunters Warned Be Careful

County Fire Warden Ralph Miller asks that hunters have a good time enjoying their sports but that they be careful with their smoking. Wednesday Mr. Miller was at the fire tower near Rose Hill when a forest fire was just getting underway a few miles from the tower. After a long search he found the fire and extinguished it after about two acres had been burned over. Mr. Miller stated that from all indications the fire was started by a hunter. He said no doubt the hunter was innocent in starting the fire. Probably he thoughtlessly flipped away a cigarette without seeing that it was out. Had it not been for the fact that Mr. Miller was near by the fire would have done thousands of dollars worth of damage. It was the first forest fire reported since the first day of August.
