Warsaw Couple Hosts To Artist

Gazing at the majestic beauty of the natural spectacle, he set up his easel and went to work, trying to capture on canvas a little of what he saw. In no time at all, he was attracting more tourists than the roaring falls. Even starry-eyed honeymooners gathered silently behind him for a little over-the-shoulder-peeping.

In the few weeks he has been a resident of Hunterdon, M. Lo-Ys has done paintings of a number of homes and other scenic spots which already are building him a reputation. Not that he needs to, because in Paris, France, he has long been widely known through his skills not only with brushes but also in metal working.

His interest in America stemmed from his boyhood days when he used to hear fabulous tales of the country in colorful letters from his grandfather in California. But he never got around to crossing the ocean until 1950 and now he wants to come back here as soon as possible to make his permanent residence.

Flemington holds added interest for M. Lo-Ys although the thread is somewhat tenuous.

He explained it one night to a group of people enjoying the gracious hospitality of Mrs. Constance Ward in her charming little Thatcher's Hill home.

A native of Switzerland, Frenchman by adoption, he speaks a number of languages, not including English. So he had to converse through the lips of his smiling daughter whose command of her adopted country's language is exceptional.

"When Papa decided to come to America he was delighted," said Mrs. Barden. "But when he heard his final destination would be our home in Flemington, he was particularly excited."

The reason? It was in Flemington that they tried the Lindburgh baby kidnapper and M. Lo-Ys had the honor of creating a trophy presented to Charles Lindburgh at the Paris reception celebrating his solo trans-Atlantic flight. The affair was held in the theater of the Champs-Elysees.

M. Lo-Ys was among the wildly cheering mob to welcome "Le Grand Charlie" that famous 1927 day at Le Bourget and the event excited him tremendously. He went home wishing he could contribute to the history-making event.

About two years previously, in 1925, M. Lo-Ys had created a trophy, for the celebrated French dirigible, the ill-fated Dixmude. He had exhibited the thing at the International Exhibition in Paris and now it was in his home. Then came a telephone call from a friend in the Chamber of Deputies who was arranging the affair in honor of Lindbergh.

"We are having a reception Le Grand Charlie," he said excitedly, "but we have no appropriate gift for him."

Well, a fast job of engraving on the Dixmude trophy turned out something which could hardly have been more appropriate had it been made especially for the occasion.

Although he came from a family of craftsmen and artists the vivacious Frenchman believes he acquired his love of working with metals while he was learning the watchmaker's trade as a youth of 19. His father was a watchmaker and an expert creator of miniatures. After M. Lo-Ys went to Paris to live permanently, he built up a business creating exquisite pieces of jewelry from gold, silver and other metals.

Celebrated personalities from many parts of the continent come to the door of Lo-Ys for expensive creations, of wide variety, from huge bronze platters to delicate creusions in the precious metals.

M. Lo-Ys is so entranced with this place he has yearned to visit for more than a half century, that he feels certain it will be only a matter of time until they return to become permanently established in America.

JR. FELLOWSHIP HAS HALLOWEEN PARTY

The Junior Fellowship of the Warsaw Presbyterian Church had a Halloween party in the church Monday night. Miss Eva Belle Kornegay and Bill Farrior were in charge. The young people were in charge of decorations. W. J. Middleton Jr. and John Peirce Jr. assisted with the games. Mesdames W. J. Middleton and Jerry Newbold provided fortune telling. Among the activities was apple bobbing, marshmallow contest, treasure hunt and costume judging. Refreshments consisted of lemonade, peanuts, candies, apples, with toy crickets as favors. Between 40 and 50 attended.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

About 20 young neighborhood children between the ages of 4 and 7 had a Halloween party on Monday evening between 7 and 8:30. The group started at the home of Mrs. Edgar Pollock where they received toy horns. This being a "trick or treat party" they next went to the home of Mrs. Milton West where they were given candy. From there on to Mrs. Walker Stevens the "treat" was apples. At Mrs. Loughton Albertson's parched peanuts, doughnuts and balloons were enjoyed. Finally the party climaxed at the home of Mrs. W. A. Powell where punch was served. Each child had a paper bag to put all his belongings in and at this time it was opened and enjoyed. The children were accompanied by parents.

HALLOWEEN PARTY

At 3:30 Monday afternoon in the Nursery department of the Presbyterian church members of the Nursery and Beginners departments were given a Halloween Party. Mrs. Robert Frederick was chairman for the arrangements. She was assisted by Mesdames Jerry Newbold, Loughton Albertson and Ed Baars.

Games were enjoyed. During the peanut hunt Edna Faye Owen and Mary Susan Baars won prizes. They also pinned the tail on the donkey and bobbed for apples. A fishing pond held much interest.

Refreshments consisted of ice cream faces with cones for hats. About 25 attended, each dressed in a Halloween costume.

Uncle Sam Says

A lot of folks are tempted to speculate with their money. With the farmer, however, there's enough speculation in farming itself—what with the weather, insects, plant disease, livestock sickness, and prices. For the farmer, a safe, sure way of building financial security is with U. S. Savings Bonds. Should he need extra cash his money is handy. It's always there for emergencies. So, farmers, be sure that part of your fall crop or livestock check goes into U. S. Savings Bonds. They pay 4% for every $100 you invest in ten-year U. S. Savings Bonds.

MRS. HENRY L. STEVENS, JR. of Warsaw, (right) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Beasley of Kenansville, who was elected president of the North Carolina Division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at the recent convention held in Fayetteville. Shown with Mrs. Stevens is MRS. QUENTON GREGORY of Halifax, retiring president. Mrs. Stevens has served the division as recording secretary and as registrar. She has held every office in the James Kenan Chapter of Warsaw and served three times as president.

Skin Test

The tuberculin test is a simple sensitivity test to find out whether or not a person has tuberculous germs in his body. A positive reaction does not necessarily mean active tuberculosis, but it should be followed by a chest X-ray to make certain there is no disease. Tuberculin testing programs for school children are supported in many localities by Christmas Seal Sale funds.
