SMALL BUSINESS

Look for the latest bureaucratic move, the new credit regulations on home buying, to be a focal point of attack when Congress goes back into session late in November.

In fact, this action may well be reflected in November elections.

The heavy protest is coming from cities under $5,000 where the new ruling is hurting.

In communities of this size, the independent building contractor, and his suppliers such as the independent lumber yard, plumber, hardware store and others, are a key factor in the community economy. Together they account for about two-thirds of the nation's home building.

The building boom to all current needs for housing has resulted in some inflationary trends in large metropolitan areas where big corporations, big financial institutions, and big labor has created artificial price levels.

But in the communities of the U.S.A., the common sense of both buyers and independent operators in the building industry has kept inflation down. In fact, records show that in 1929 four out of five homes were sold to families with incomes from $2,000 to $5,000.

But these facts were obviously waved aside by the bureaucrats.

They proceeded on the theory that there is only one way to get rid of mice in a house. Burn the house down.

So look for a stamp in building. Look for unemployment. People thrown out of work by this latest bureaucratic fantasy cannot be absorbed in defense work.

National Federation of Independent Business

The military will take less than 10% of the lumber supply next year; only 5% of the steel.

This is going to cause Congressional embarrassment. They voted these arbitrary powers to bureaucrats without any necessity.

Congressmen may try to wiggle out of this by pleading, "forgive us, for we know not what we did." But from all reports, stupidity is becoming a defense that the people in the smaller cities of the country are getting very reluctant to accept.

People are already starting to ask such questions as this.

"Why were such powers given to men like Carl Gray of the Veterans Administration who at one time was general superintendent of a large corporation and is now a director of a large investment syndicate, or to Ray Foley, head of the Federal Housing Administration, who has been on government payrolls continuously since 1932. What do they know about our local problems?"

Back of this entire move is the underlying drive.

The bureau in charge of rent control wants its powers back. The bureau that wants to build public housing projects now see their opportunity.

But all this has no effect on the Frenchman, for just prior to this order, DCA Bulletin No. 1765 announced this information.

The Marshall Plan has just granted France $15,000,000 for building homes. This will not cause inflation in France... because American taxpayers foot the bill.

are expected to spend the week end with the Lombardes at the Parkers.

Prune Pie Makes Economical Autumn Dessert

Prunes, we know, are good for us, and make particularly fitting fare for small fry. Besides, they're plentiful and economical. And even this elegant chiffon pie is economical, for it's one of the delicacies so easy to concoct with the new gel-cookery methods utilizing unfavored gelatine.

A good and glamorous selection for an autumn dinner dessert, it's one that will tax neither your time nor your funds.

Prune Chiffon Pie
1 envelope unflavored gelatine
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 cup cooked prune liquid
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 cup chopped, cooked prunes
2/3 cup icy cold evaporated milk
Soften gelatine in water. Mix together sugar, salt and flour in a cup; add prune liquid. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Remove from heat; add gelatine, stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice. Chill until slightly thicker than unbeaten egg white. Beat with rotary egg beater until fluffy. Stir in chopped prunes. Whip evaporated milk. Fold gelatine into whipped milk. Turn into 8-inch baked pie shell. If desired garnish with whipped cream and pieces of prune. YIELD: 1 9-inch pie.

transferred to the North Carolina Conference of which he was a member at the time of his death.

Among the churches he served during his pastorate were at Burgaw, Newport, Elizabethtown, Ahoskie and Lumberton. He superannuated in 1934 and since his retirement he has resided near Siler City. He was a member of the Providence Methodist Church.

Funeral services were held at the First Methodist Church in Siler City Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Rev. E. R. Clegg in charge. Burial was in Pleasant Grove Christian Church Cemetery near Bennett.

He was first married to Lydia B. Leonard, who died a number of years ago. To this union three daughters and one son survive. Mrs. A. L. Mansfield of Carolina Beach, Mrs. E. C. Thompson of Warsaw, Myrtle Caviness of Siler City and C. H. Caviness, Jr. of Los Angeles, Calif. His second marriage was to Carrie B. Roberts who survives. To this union two daughters and three sons survive. Mrs. Leroy Pittman, Siler City, Ethel Caviness of Kinston, James W. Caviness of Siler City, Star Route, Rev. W. D. Caviness of Morehead City and Paul Caviness of St. Saulte-Maria, Mich. and ten grandchildren.
